Sound On Please

In life, there are moments when you miss someone so much, that you could only fulfill your dreams by holding that person tight in your arms.

When one door is closed, another opens.
Yet, we tend to look at the closed door and don't attach importance to the one, which we have just opened.

Do not trust appearances; they are often false.
Do not overly interest yourself in wealth; it will disappear.

Seek somebody who communicates with you through laughter, because one laugh can turn a sad day into a joyful day.

An aerial photograph of a tropical coastline. A wide, winding river with light-colored sandbars flows through lush green hills. The river meets a white sand beach that stretches along the coast. The ocean is a vibrant turquoise color. In the background, there are more hills and islands under a clear blue sky.

Dream whatever you desire to dream.
Go wherever you wish.
Seek whatever you desire.

Because life is unique by the way in which you shape it.

Those who are blessed,
do not necessarily have the best of the best.

They seek simply
the best in others,
and in what they see on their journey.

In order to experience a beautiful future you need to forgive the hurts of the past.
Do not wait to feel forgiving; it may never come.
Instead, choose to forgive and your feelings will soon follow.
Learn too from your past mistakes.

Live life to the full, and always smile in spite of difficult times.
