Done on 2016.01.13

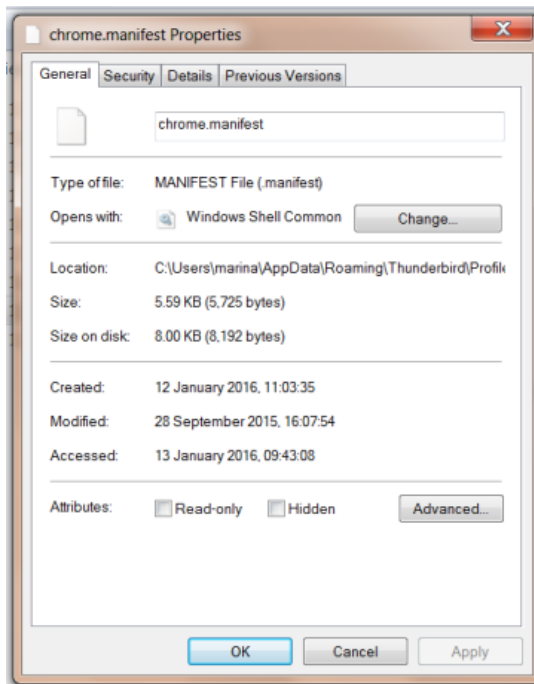

Version TB 38.5.1 / L 4.0.4.1 / Windows 7 Pro 64 bits on Windows Domain with Roaming profile

1. Assuming you have a working Lightning, shut down TB if running.

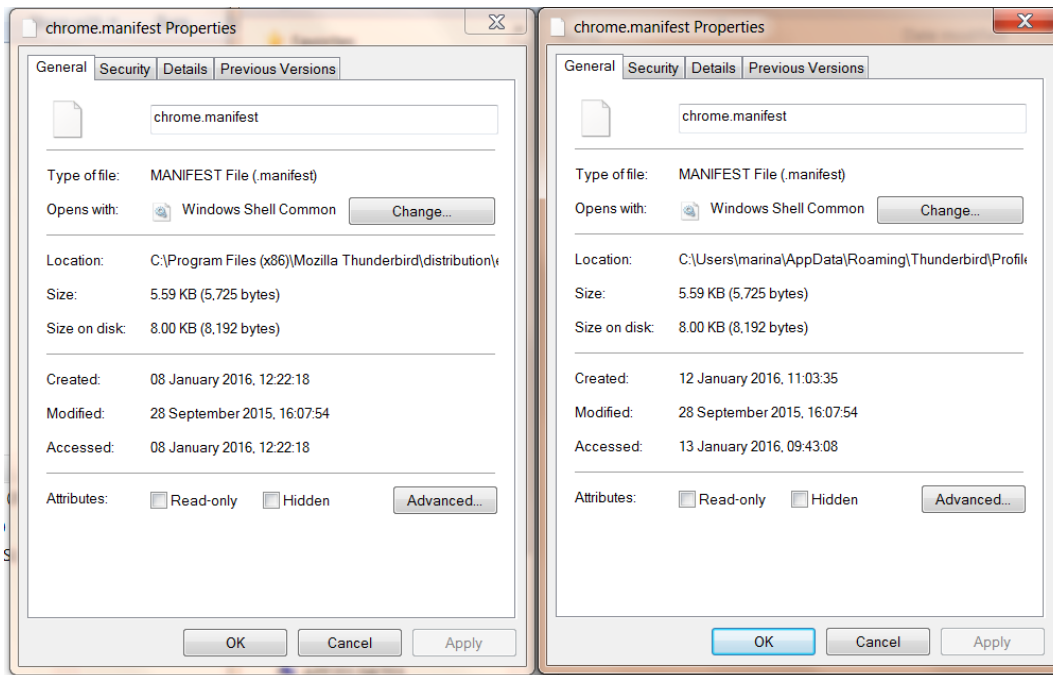

Done.

2. Copy your current chrome.manifest located in the local copy of <tb-profile>/extensions/{e2fda1a4-762b-4020-b5ad-a41df1933103} to a place elsewhere

Done. Backed up elsewhere.

3. Copy the chrome.manifest from <tb-app-dir>/distribution/extensions/{e2fda1a4-762b-4020-b5ad-a41df1933103} to the local copy of <tb-profile>/extensions/{e2fda1a4-762b-4020-b5ad-a41df1933103} and cross check the copied file still has the same timestamp as in the source folder (this step would break Lightning from running at this point in time, so don't restart TB until the test is completed)

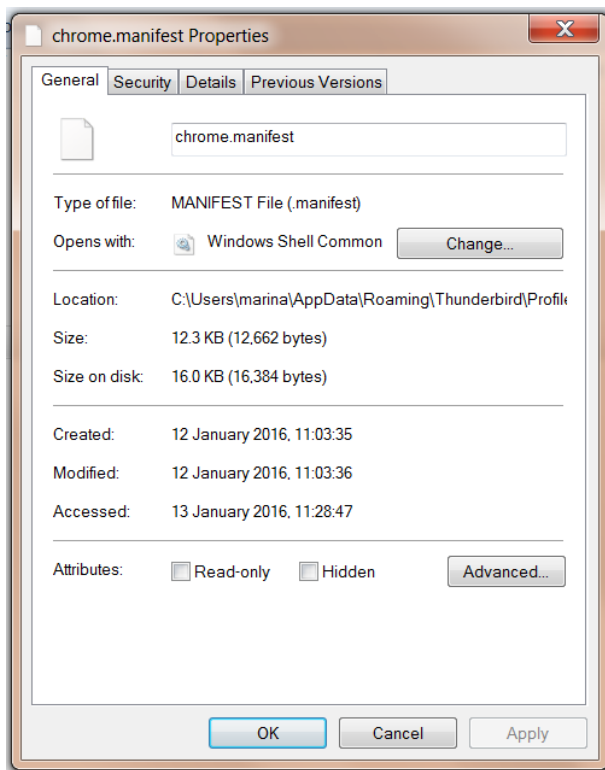

FYI, at this stage, Thunderbird can start, I can access mailbox and menus but lightning extension is not loaded cannot access calendars/tasks.

4. Trigger file synchronization (depending on implementation, this may be a Windows logoff/logon or a serverside triggered background operation) in an appropriate way.

Done. Logoff/Logon.

5. Check the chrome.manifest file in <tb-profile>/extensions/{e2fda1a4-762b-4020-b5ad-a41df1933103} - is this still the copied version or replaced by the previous version, you have backed up before (check timestamp and content)?

Replaced by the version I have backed up before.

Thunderbird can start and I can access mailbox folders, menus and calendars/tasks.

6. In the former case, replace the chrome.manifest in <tb-profile>/extensions/{e2fda1a4-762b-4020-b5ad-a41df1933103} with the backed up copy again before starting TB again. (This step would not be required, if the theory is correct; now it is safe to start TB again).

Not required.

7. Report your result in this bug.

Here is is 😊
