

esting is easy - create a task and saves it and reopen:

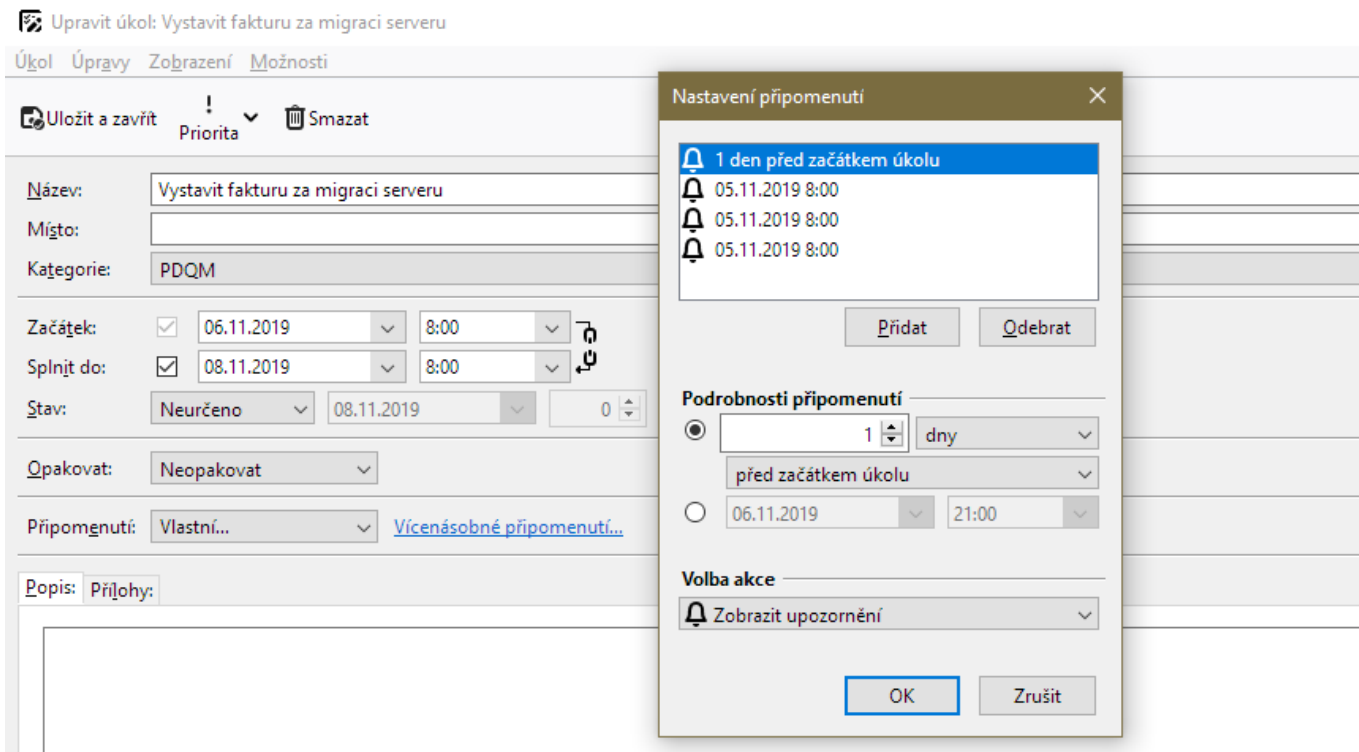

make a small update. close and reopen:

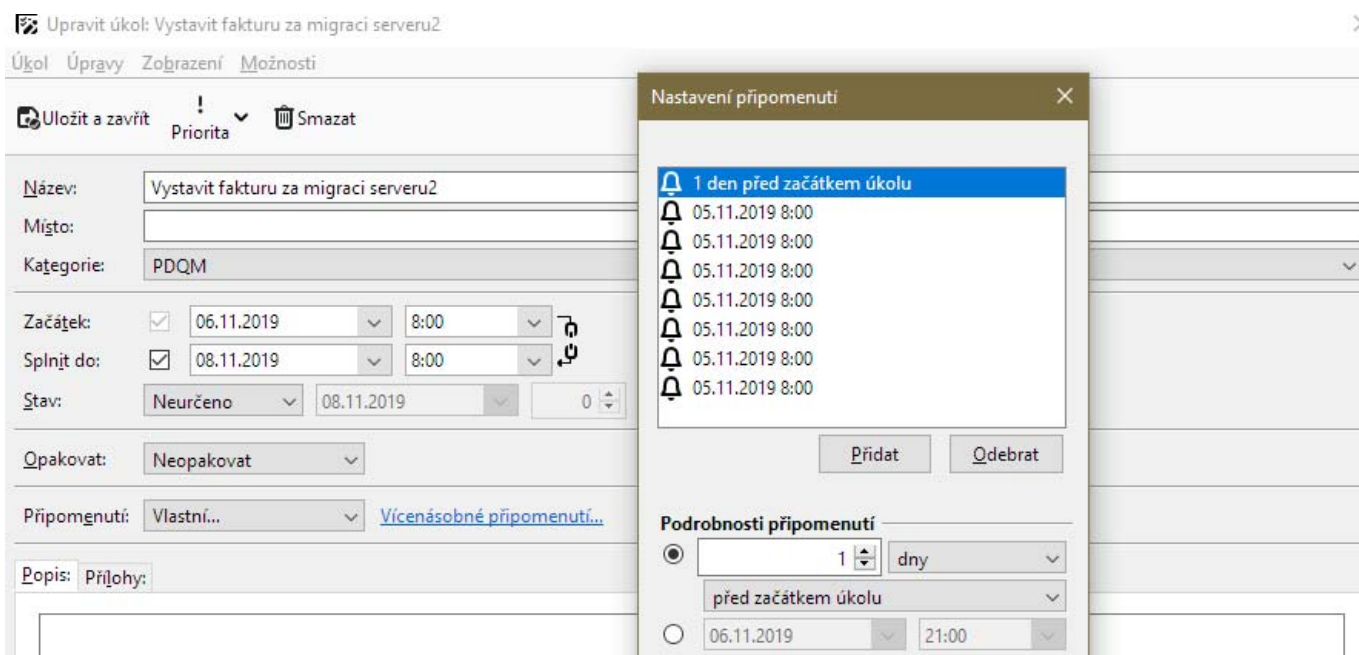

and it goes forever with every change including update from the external organizer.

I have also google account linked and that account does not have this issue.

The same issue is with the tasks:

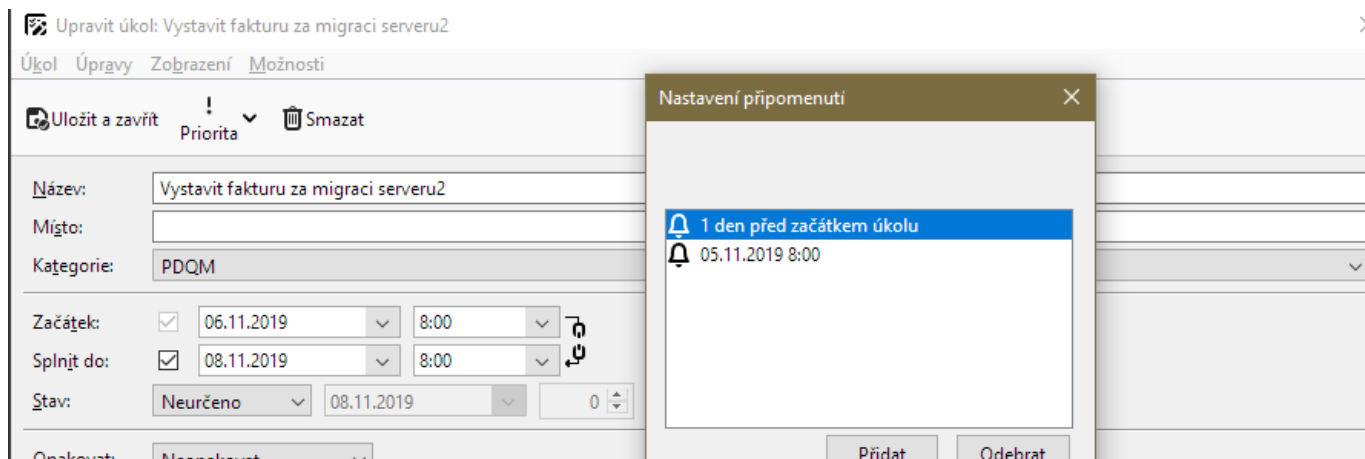

After and update of the text:

And such tasks makes phones issues to manage.

I deleted all repeatable tasks except the first one (1 day before the start) closed and reopen, and I have a new reminder again:

When I update a local task (stored on the local computer), the problem does not appear.
