

Agreement for Receipt and Use of Bugzilla Data

Thank you for contacting us about using the Bugzilla database for the public good. We are happy to work with you and provide access to you free of any charge.

In exchange for receipt and right to use data from Mozilla's Bugzilla system, you agree to the following:

*you will only use the data for purposes that benefit the public;

*you will not use the data to identify or attempt to identify security flaws in any Mozilla product or potential product;

*you will not attempt to reidentify or deanonymize the source of the data or otherwise seek to extract any personal information from the data;

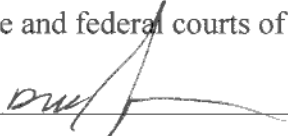

*you will not share or transfer the data to any third party; in the event you are acquired or cease operations or have a change of control, all your rights to the data cease.

*Mozilla does not make any representations or warranties about the data and you receive it on an AS-IS basis and acknowledge that it may contain bugs, viruses, or errors. Mozilla expressly disclaims any implied warranties of non-infringement, satisfactory quality, fitness for a particular purpose, and merchantability. The UN Convention on the International Sale of Goods is expressly disclaimed.

*Mozilla's total aggregate liability under this agreement shall not exceed US$50.

*No agency or other relationship is created by this agreement.

*This Agreement shall be governed by California law without regard to its conflict of law provisions. In the event of a dispute related to this Agreement, you consent to the personal jurisdiction of California and agree not to bring an action against Mozilla except in the state and federal courts of California, USA.
