

Can we have some kind of graphic header background behind "Clickables" text to make it pop a little more (and look a little less like the PR blog & Gary's blog) And maybe the arrow pointing to "Clickables" like when you click on a link?

Clickables
Clickable bits of Firefox information written just for you!

Remove the "filed under" section. And add the words "Clickable Comments" with the thought bubble and comment numbers f 23 t 64 Clickable buttons to share this info with friends!

Since it's called "Clickables" - I thought a repeat of the header design element that points out the clickable share buttons might get more clicks on those buttons.

Would love another graphic component for the right hand side.
