for MOZFEST 2014!

MozFest is Mozilla's annual festival for people who care about the culture, mechanics and citizenship of the web. Each year we meet to revel, be inspired, and keep the web both brimming with innovation and open to everyone. True to its motto, Less Yack, More Hack, MozFest is a rollicking mix of teaching, making, coding, sharing, learning, hacking and celebrating. Join us for three exhilarating days of forging the future of the web!

for MAKER PARTY!

Maker Party is part of Mozilla's Webmaker project — a global campaign to teach the web. Through thousands of community-run events around the world, Maker Party unites educators, organizations and enthusiastic web users with hands-on learning and making. From July 15 to September 15, 2014, be part of the movement by attending a Maker Party event or hosting one of your own, and join us in teaching the culture, mechanics and citizenship of the web.
