

This is what I tried to do:

I don't write this sentence in german

<oops wrong! After typing I place the cursor within "german", press [F3 = assigned to "Format.Change Case.Capitalize every Word"] (thanks to ms-word...) and get the following result after typing [blank+t]>

This is what I tried to do:
I don't write this sentence in German t hurs day
<after typing I place the cursor within "german">

Looks a bit strange – would have written "testing", but the "t" followed immediately the ghost-written rest of the line above.
