The image consists of a grid of horizontal black bars of varying lengths. The bars are arranged in rows, with each row containing approximately 100 bars. The lengths of the bars are distributed such that they form a bell-shaped curve when viewed as a whole. The longest bars are in the center, and the lengths decrease as they move towards the edges. The bars are set against a plain white background.

The figure consists of 15 separate horizontal bar charts arranged vertically. Each chart has a y-axis labeled from 0 to 100 in increments of 10. The x-axis is labeled with letters A through J. Each bar is black with a thin white outline. The height of each bar represents a value for a specific category (A-J) across different conditions or time points. The distributions are as follows:

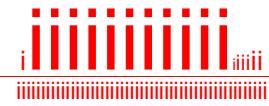

- Chart 1: Peak at A (~95), B (~5), C (~5)
- Chart 2: Peak at A (~95), B (~5), C (~5)
- Chart 3: Peak at A (~95), B (~5), C (~5)

The figure displays 15 separate horizontal bar charts, each consisting of 10 bars of varying heights. The charts are arranged vertically from top to bottom. The total width of each chart varies, indicating a change in the scale or context of the data being presented. Each chart shows the relative contribution of 10 different categories to a whole, with the total height of all bars in each chart summing up to 100%.

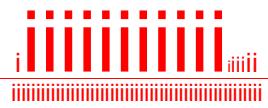

Figure 1 consists of four panels arranged horizontally, each showing a dendrogram of sample clustering. The y-axis for all panels is labeled "Sample" and the x-axis is also labeled "Sample".

- Panel 1: Shows a single large cluster at the top, indicating that all samples are very similar.
- Panel 2: Shows two main clusters. The left cluster contains approximately 10 samples, and the right cluster contains approximately 10 samples.
- Panel 3: Shows three main clusters. The leftmost cluster contains approximately 5 samples, the middle cluster contains approximately 5 samples, and the rightmost cluster contains approximately 10 samples.
- Panel 4: Shows four main clusters. The leftmost cluster contains approximately 5 samples, the second cluster from the left contains approximately 5 samples, the third cluster from the left contains approximately 5 samples, and the rightmost cluster contains approximately 10 samples.
