

at Antietam there was a very large barn and farm house the barn was filled with wounded, & the barn yard, and the house as full as it could stick - a peaceful barn, now bloody the fragrant hay they used to place the men on for operations – they turned the cattle out of their stalls