General Comment: To Whom It May Concern:

The size of government and the onerous nature of the regulations that you have put on the American people need to stop. Why do you continue to subsidize farming and other industries? These actions only hurt the American people as a whole and are unconstitutional in the sense that they both benefit a small section of the population, not the general population, and they treat us unequally. It is no coincidence that our economy is growing at such a sluggish rate due to the regulations and legislation that get in the way of a free market. History has taught us that central planning of any sort always ends up in the dustbin of history, whereas voluntary cooperation of the market always produces a higher standard of living than your central planning would ever do. I can't believe that in a country that supposedly stands for individual freedom, that we have gotten so far off the track by talking about marketing of onions as a government role. This is ridiculous and pathetic. Can you please tell me where you get the authority to do this? As I read the Declaration of Independence, I note the following lines "He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people, and eat out of their substance." It would appear that we, as an American government and nation, are once again on the path to tyranny and these kinds of regulations are a symptom of that. I know that you folks think you are doing good, but the only ones you are serving are the bureaucrats and those power mongerers. Please get rid of these regulations for the sake of freedom.

Todd Benson
