Lone Rock Boat Ramp Damaged

The Bureau of Land Management's Roseburg District Office is reporting winter storm damage to the lower portions of the Lone Rock Boat Launch, located approximately one mile east of Glide. High river flows from recent storms have rendered the launch site unusable at current water levels. If current dry weather patterns persist, water levels may continue to drop, allowing for repairs to be made. If precipitation increases and water levels rise, the launch may become usable again. The entire launch is scheduled to be replaced and rebuilt in September of 2009. For additional information, please contact Erik Taylor at the Roseburg BLM office at 464-3271.

About the BLM:

The BLM manages more land – 256 million acres – than any other Federal agency. This land, known as the National System of Public Lands, is primarily located in 12 Western states, including Alaska. The Bureau, with a budget of about $1 billion, also administers 700 million acres of sub-surface mineral estate throughout the nation. The BLM's multiple-use mission is to sustain the health and productivity of the public lands for the use and enjoyment of present and future generations. The Bureau accomplishes this by managing such activities as outdoor recreation, livestock grazing, mineral development, and energy production, and by conserving natural, historical, cultural, and other resources on public lands.
