POINT LOMA IN THE LIMELIGHT

Raja Yoga School to Undergo An Investigation.

CAREER OF TINGLEY WOMAN

FACTS BROUGHT OUT IN THE "LOTUS BUD" CASE.

CAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 13.-Mrs. Katherine Tingley of the Universal Brotherhood has received word from New York to the effect that the Gerry Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children will send a representative to California for the purpose of aiding similar societies in this state in the institution of proceedings to have the children removed from the Raja Yoga school at Point Loma. Mrs. Tingley, in a statement published today, says she courts the most searching investigation and has applied to the state authorities of California, asking for a commission to investigate the Raja Yoga school at Point Loma. She demands the protection of the state, not only in the interest of the school, but in the interests of the state of California and in justice to the mayor and other officials of San Diego, who have endorsed the Raja Yoga school.

Mrs. Tingley's Career.

The character of Katherine T. Ting-ley, leading spirit in the American Theosophical cult and "master" of the Universal Brotherhood, with headquarters at Point Loma, Cal., was assailed in unsparing fashion in the hearing of the so-called "Lotus Bud" case, involving the detention by the immigration authorities at Ellis Island of the eleven Cuban children whom Mrs. Tingley proposed to take to the "School for the Cuban children whom Mrs. Tingley proposed to take to the "School for the Revival of the Lost Mysteries of Antiquity," at Point Loma. Mrs. Tingley is the self-appointed successor of William Q. Judge as head of Theosophists in this country. She founded and still runs the school and temple at Point Loma. She has a little spaniel, "Spot," which she claims to contain the soul of William Q. Judge. Mrs. Tingley is said to believe the soul in the spaniel watches and guides all that she does. She goes about dressed in purple, which she claims to be alone entitled to wear.

Commodore Gerry, at the hearing becommodore Gerry, at the hearing be-fore Commissioner Williams and the board of special inquiry at Ellis island, put witnesses on the stand who gave the woman's record from the time she was 12 years of age and lived in New-buryport, Mass.

All Evidence Admitted.

Lawyer Beckwith, who appeared for the Theosophists, tried to keep the evi-dence out, but the board admitted every word of it.

Edward Parker, a retired banker of Boston, and a Theosophist, testified that when he joined the cult he thoroughly investigated the character of Mrs. Tingley. He said that Dr. Alfred Walton, of whom he made early inquiry, told him that Mrs. Tingley was the "vilest adventuress he had ever known."

known."

Dr. Walton told him, Mr. Parker said, that in June, 1896, Mrs. Tingley took a party of students to Europe. Dr. Walton said that he went to the steamer to see the party off, and Mrs. Tingley, before the steamer sailed, took him into her state room and kissed him in a manner that plainly showed him that she was a woman who knew the ways of bad women.

of bad women.

Mr. Parker said he went to Newburyport. Mass., where she was born. He found the people who knew her very free to speak of her escapades there as a girl. Many persons told him she had "filmflammed" bankers in her native town and left behind her a long trail of gossin which avidently contained of gossip, which evidently contained much truth.

Parker learned that she had as a young woman taken parties of girls from Newburyport to New York, where from Newburyport to New York, where-they had high old jinks doing the city and going to theatres with chance ac-quaintances. Mr. Parker said it was common talk in Newburyport that Mrs. Tingley, as a young woman, had broken up one home, if not more, and also had been guilty of many sharp practices.

Her Husband's Letter.

Mr. Parker read a letter from R. H. Cook, Mrs. Tingley's husband, written from the Printers' home, Colorado Springs. Cook said he was there suffering with consumption. The letter was made a part of the record. Cook said he married Kate Westcott (now was made a part of the record. Cook said he married Kate Westcott (now Mrs. Tingley) in 1867 at Savannah, Ga. She had either been expelled or had run away from Villa Maria convent. When Cook saw her in Savannah, he said, he was surprised and wrote to her father in Newburyport. Her father replied, the letter said, he would have nothing more to do with his daughter. He gave Cook permission to marry her. He gave Cook permission to marry her, which Cook did. Cook then learned, the letter said, that his wife was associating with a Sayannah woman of bad repute, and he told her she would have to quit the woman or he would quit her. She would not quit the wo-man, so he left her and came, he says, to New York. They had been married only three months only three months.

She followed him there in 1869, the letter said, and they were reconciled and lived together. They had, the letter said, one child. She soon tired and wanted to go to Washington, D. C., to visit a relative, who kept, the letter said, a gambling house at the national capital.

Cook says he told her that if she visited the relative he would have nothing more to do with her. She went, however, and he did not see her, the letter says, until 1874, when she returned to New York and sent him her Sixth avenue address. He called on her and found that she wanted money. She had married again, the letter said, and Cook then told her he would apply for a divorce on the ground of desertion, teaving out all scandal. She agreed to this, but before the papers could be served on her she disappeared.

Cook says he wrote to her brother at Newburyport, and he wrote back that his sister was dead.

How It Started.

How It Started.

The so-called Lotus Bud case came about by an attempt on the part of Mrs. Tingley and some of her followers to import a small band of Cuban girls. Commodore Gerry suspected that things were not as they should be and he immediately had the children stopped at Ellis island and the board of sheet, incuring because of special inquiry began an investiga-of special inquiry began an investigation.

Occultism, as practiced at the Tingley home at Point Loma, Cal., was described at the hearing by other witnesses. The spaniel in which the soul of W. Q. Judge is supposed to abide, the mysteries of the "Holy hill," the incantations before the rising sun, the barefoot "mummery," as it was called, in which all the "purple mother" are really barefooted and wade in cold dew; the mysterious teachings of the cult, and a great deal that cannot be printed, were brought forward. At the end, after a quarrel in which the lawyer for Mrz. Tingley withdrew from the hearing, the children were ordered deported for the second time.

The hearing was before the board of special inquiry at Ellis island.

One of the witnesses was L. F. Fitch, a former bookkeeper for Mrs. Tingley.

a former bookkeeper for Mrs. Tingley.

"Mrs. Tingley," testified the witness, "when I joined her pointed out a place where I could pitch a tent and live. My wife was with me. She said that was the best way to live—in a tent. But she stipulated that we must not hang out any washing where it could be seen by any one going or coming from 'Holy hill."

Attorney Davis at once wented to be seen by any one going or coming from 'Holy hill.' and the witness began to tell him, explaining that there were frequent processions to and from it. Every morning all the members of the United Brotherhood were marched up to the gate of the "Holy hill" to greet the rising sun. Only those belonging to the "inner circle" were ever admitted within the gate to the inner sanctum of the "Holy hill," and they only on occasions set by Mrs. Tingley. The witness was only there once, and could not give a very clear idea of what occurred further than that there was "a great deal of mummery." He said Mrs. Tingley dressed like all the rest, except that while she made the others either go barefooted or in their stocking feet, she wore slippers inside of her stockings.

At this point there was heard the room and a tall, handsome brunette, who had been occupying a rear seat, was seen to sit up very straight.

An Interruption.

An Interruption. An Interruption.

"My wife," continued the witness, unconscious of the lightning that was beginning to flash from the woman's eyes, "was not a member, although I was one of the inner circle. Mrs. Tingley told me that Mrs. Fitch was not ready for the order—she said I would be a good fellow if it was not for my wife, and that she could foresee that I was going to be a henpecked husband. Then she advised me for my own good to separate."

"I'd separate her," came an echoing

'I'd separate her," came an echoing

"I'd separate her," came an echoing voice from the corner.
"Her theory," continued Fitch, "is that the marriage of today is wrong in spirit, and that the true marriage should be one of entire purity. She teaches that when people have reached the proper stage marriage, as it is known in the world, will not be necessary. One man told me that she herself is the only one of the brotherhood yet eligible for this perfect marriage. Theosophy is pretty good if it could be lived up to, but "Tingleyism" was rampant there, not theosophy."

"What was your general impression of the institution?"
"A good place to keep away from,"

"A good place to keep away from," was the quick reply.
