

"It is a new day in Congress, and I am asking for your ideas on how to chart a new direction for our country."

– Congressman Becerra

August 2, 2007

Dear Friends:

It is a new day in Congress, and I am asking for your ideas on how to chart a new direction for our country. As your representative for the past 14 years, I have made it a priority to visit every neighborhood in the district to seek out your thoughts and views on the issues of the day so that I can vote for policies that best fit the needs of our community.

The war in Iraq (now in its fifth year), budget and trade deficits, immigration reform, Social Security, funding for education and health care – these are the issues that dramatically affect our lives and dominate discussion in our nation's capital. Yet, the best ideas for addressing our problems don't come from Washington, they come from the folks back home. That is why I invite and encourage you to join in on the discussion and give me your ideas on taking this country in a new direction.
