

If there is one thing that I've learned as both a cable television subscriber and a satellite television subscriber, it is this: cable service was absolutely disgraceful until a little competition came along in the form of satellite television. Although it has since improved, I believe that it would be much better if it faced the kind of REAL competition which a combined Echostar/Hughes would offer. For this reason, I am very much in favor of the merger.