You'll explore various hiring options and the advantages and disadvantages of each option. You'll discover what you can do to market the opportunities your organization offers and what it takes to make your company a great place to work. When you've finished this course, you'll have a strong basis for beginning the process of behavioral interviewing. Duration=3.0
Conducting the Behavioral-based Interview  COURSE TSA-HR-BEHAVIORINTRV-0001                      Description: Interviewing is no longer a process of interrogation. In fact, the previously held view that an interview is an opportunity for an interviewee to -sell- himself is under considerable challenge. What's taking the place of the traditional interview? The behavioral-based interview. The behavioral-based interview differs significantly from traditional interviewing styles because it focuses on the theory that past behavior and performance predict future behavior and performance. In this course, you'll learn how to ask behavioral-based questions and distinguish behavioral response from non-behavioral responses. You'll discover how you can use role plays, structured situational questions, and take-home projects to determine behavior. You'll explore various means for evaluating the ability and motivation to perform once on the job, and finally, you'll be guided through the decision-making process of selecting a candidate. Duration=2.5
Facilitating Effective Hiring  COURSE TSA-HR-FACILEFFCTHIRING-0001                      Description: The most important part of recruiting is choosing the right candidate to help your business prosper and grow. The company's recruiter is the front line to finding quality employees. Keys to facilitating effective hiring decisions include thinking through the hiring process, having a well thought-out job description, and using sound screening practices. These activities are an intrinsic part of the recruiter's job, and this course explores these areas. Duration=2.5

Hiring Considerations

COURSE TSA-HR-HIRINGCONSID-0001

Description: Recruitment is a complex and important activity for a manager. Effective hiring requires effective preparation. The recruitment process must be fair and safe, and there is plenty of legislation to trip up the unwary manager. Getting any part of this wrong is expensive, time consuming, and damaging to the good name of the company. This course will give you a brief overview of the major employment legislation that affects recruitment. Then the course will explore the options that any manager has when faced with hiring a new employee. Hiring is an expensive process, so the course explores a cost-benefit analysis of the various hiring methods, examining in detail internal hiring and contingent workers as two particular options. Defining a job in terms of competencies and then rating them provides the foundations for effective hiring, and this course will show you how to use these methods in creating a structured interview. Duration=2.5
