MARCH 1992

REPORT SUMMARY

As stated in the Project Paper Supplement, the purpose of the Agricultural Marketing Development Project was to "improve and expand the access of Central Bandundu farmers to commercial markets." To do this, the contract awarded to Louis Berger International, Inc. included the following project tasks:

1. Project Start-Up and Logistics including logistics and logistic support and workplan development;
2. Roads Component including selective road rehabilitation and maintenance in collaboration with the GOZ and USAID; and,
3. River Component including funding assistance to the GOZ to improve navigation on the Kwilu and Kasai rivers and the development and proliferation of wooden boats in agricultural marketing.
4. Information Component including a regional transport sector and a marketing study and the development of a model for directing and assessing the impact of project activities in the region.

When the Project started up in February 1990, the relationship between the GOZ and USAID had already soured due to the GOZ's inability to manage Project related activities and Project procured commodities and due to economic problems which resulted in funding cuts for project activities. Regie des Voies Fluviales (RVF), the GOZ organization responsible for managing the country's waterways, had performed poorly during the first phase of the Project showing neither the ability nor the will to manage Project equipment and to provide the appropriate manpower to carry out the Project activities. The GOZ at the same time had fallen in arrears with loan payments to the IMF causing the USAID mission to start reducing the level of effort based on funding that would be available.

For Project 098 that meant eliminating all planned activities with the RVF, a major portion of the Project's River Component, and the closing of the Project's Kikwit office. The Project's Hydrographer left Zaire during January 1991 and at the same time all Kikwit support staff with the exception of one Zairian engineer were terminated, all Project commodities in Kikwit were transferred to other projects, the GOZ (where commodities were already in the GOZ's possession), or USAID. All that remained was the Project's Administrative Officer and Transport Economist, with a small support staff, in Kinshasa. The Project continued to operate and carry out Project tasks up until the forced evacuation of personnel after the military mutiny of September 23-24, 1991.

Still, the Project succeeded in accomplishing some major portions of the original Project tasks. Team members and representatives from USAID managed to negotiate an arrangement with Office des Routes wherein roads in the target region would be rehabilitated and maintained. A river survey was begun in the target region to ascertain the extent to which farmers in the region could use the waterways to transport produce to transfer points. In addition, the Bandundu Transport Sector Marketing Study was carried out through a first phase. All of these activities were cut short by the evacuation.

It still remains to be seen whether or not the Project could "improve and expand the access of central Bandundu farmers to commercial markets." However, it has become clear that facilitating the evacuation of agricultural produce from the region is complicated and only a well defined project with verifiable objectives will succeed.

TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE

PROJECT TASKS

PROJECT START-UP AND LOGISTICS

During February 1990 a Technical assistance team arrived in Zaire. As a prelude to project technical assistance in the target region, a base of operations was established in Kikwit including housing and office facilities. Furniture and office equipment procured under the first phase of the project was transported overland to the work site and extensive renovation was conducted on an office building and five houses. This task proved to be a formidable one in light of the fact that Kikwit was almost always without electricity and potable water and materials to carry out the renovation had to be purchased in Kinshasa and transported to Kikwit. After six months of effort, during July of 1990, team members occupied their respective housing but the entire process took a toll - most team members spent the six month period monitoring the renovations as workers were not adequately supervised and often, when left alone, renovation work had to be redone or repaired. Also, the temporary housing which was used during the renovation period was inadequate and, as most team members had families to care for, a great deal of time was needed to provide adequate medical and logistical support for dependents. During this time it was decided that the Administrative Officer for the the Team would reside in Kinshasa to provide adequate backup support for those in the field and timely liaison with USAID.

Between June and November 1990, as part of the process of developing project workplans, a series of meetings were held with Project 102, the companion agricultural development and marketing project to Project 098. The purpose of the meetings was to schedule river marketing trials using wooden boats designed and built by Project 098 and to identify key roadway sections to be targeted for rehabilitation. A plan for this collaboration never materialized as a formal relationship between the two projects never materialized.

ROADS COMPONENTS

Road Rehabilitation and Maintenance

Initially, Project 098 was to include specific road rehabilitation and maintenance activities which were to be carried out through a contracting mechanism wherein the project would contract local organizations to provide the rehabilitation services while being monitored and advised by USAID/098/LBII personnel. It was also decided that the Project would concern itself with "hot spot" rehabilitation, i.e., areas critical to keeping the roads open and which required significant structural applications and/or the use of heavy machinery and materials not indigenous to the areas. In return, the GOZ, through Office des Routes (OR) would provide regular maintenance to the roads specified by the project. Because of economic problems in Zaire at the time there was some doubt that OR could provide these services. The reduction in the level of effort by USAID in January 1991 put these activities on hold. However, during the period January-August 1991, project and USAID personnel negotiated an arrangement with OR wherein they would provide regular maintenance to the Project specified roads through contracts with local persons in the region and the Project would identify "hot spots" and deal with them as originally planned. In August of 1991, USAID and Project personnel toured the area to identify "hot spots" and to move incrementally to repair them as originally planned. The project was in the process of proposing this work to USAID when the evacuation took place.

Earth Road Stabilization Program

Pending the commencement of road rehabilitation activities in the target area, a worksite study was conducted by Office des Routes in collaboration with Project 098. The purpose of the study was to determine the suitability of using locally available materials for selective road rehabilitation and maintenance activities. The study was conducted along the Petit Kasai - Bulungu - Panu - Mangai - Ngenkong - Idiofa - Yasa Lokwa - Aten - RN1 route which was jointly identified by Project 098, Project 102, and USAID engineers as a major conduit for the evacuation of agricultural production in the project area based on access to waterways and the national highway to Kinshasa. The route also included potential sub-projects which had been specified in the PPS, namely, the relocation of the Ivang dike, restoration of the bridge approach ramps at Koreama, reconstruction of culverts at Panu, and numerous bridges and culverts located on the Idiofa-Kikwit road. The results of the study indicated that local materials (i.e., laterite and gravel) occurring naturally at potential worksites could be effectively used when mixed with various percentages of cement and could provide an acceptable alternative to the sand found in most of the Bandundu Region. A copy of this report was submitted to USAID at the end of November 1991.

RIVER COMPONENTS

Wooden Boat Building Development

A carryover activity from Phase I of Project 098, production of wooden boats, continued under Phase II. The emphasis during Phase II was on 1) private sector production, 2) proliferation of the boats through credit programs, and 3) identification of interested, viable boat users. In addition, 25.5 and 30 meter prototypes were planned.

Between February 1990 and September 1991, a worksite was identified and established at Nioki (FORESCOM) and studies were conducted at Maluku and Kinkole. A 26.5 meter boat was constructed and launched from Nioki with a potential payload of 75 tons and two 30 meter boats were in production when the TA team was evacuated. There was a great deal of interest expressed in the 26.5 meter boats with the first being sold by FORESCOM prior to its launching; backorders for this size boat numbered between 15 and 20 due to aggressive marketing by both Project and FORESCOM personnel. The 30 meter boats, with potential payloads of 100 tons also solicited great interest, with potential buyers already identified for the two in production.

A second worksite for construction of these larger boats was being set up at CHANIMETAL in Kinshasa. To that end, three persons from CHANIMETAL spent three months at the Nioki site to be trained in the construction techniques.

During this time USAID had begun inquiries at local banks to ascertain the viability of establishing credit programs for potential buyers. The evacuation cut short these talks but the initial contacts indicated promising results.

A report synthesizing the Project's boat building activities was submitted to USAID during January of 1992.

River Charting and Marking

As USAID had decided to sever working contacts with Regie des Voies Fluviales this Project activity was put on hold during the first 18 months of implementation. In August of 1991 a much reduced river charting plan was implemented. The purpose of this activity was to inventory rapidly the smaller rivers around Kikwit and other villages deemed possible collection/transfer points for the evacuation of agricultural production to Kinshasa. The rivers inventoried included the Kwilu, the Lutshima, the Kwenge, the Lufuku, and the Bwele-Milonda. The evacuation cut short this activity but a great deal of information was collected regarding the widths and depths of these rivers and their viability as transportation routes. These initial results were not extremely promising as most of the rivers had rapids occurring close to potential transfer points. A report detailing the results of the survey was submitted to USAID during January 1992.

INFORMATION COMPONENT

Bandundu Transport and Marketing Sector Study - Phase I

The purpose of the first phase of the Bandundu Transport and Marketing Sector Study was to utilize existing data to define target subzones, identify flows of the three principal products from the region - cassava, maize, and peanuts, and relate them to the existing infrastructure, and to prepare a model for analysis and definition of future USAID interventions. Serious gaps were found to exist in the available data bases and rapid field investigations were conducted to, at least, update operating costs of barges and trucks as well as traffic flows, road conditions, and infrastructure conditions for the purpose of constructing an operational model. The study produced estimates of the quantities moving to market, identified the transport network, summarized costs associated with the transport (by truck, by boat, and by a combination of the two), and produced a description of a computer model. The study also suggested activities to be undertaken during a second phase, described below. A report summarizing the results of the phase one study was submitted to USAID during the summer of 1991.

Bandundu Transport and Marketing Sector Study - Phase II

The objective of the second phase of the Bandundu Transport and Marketing Sector Study was to define and prioritize interventions that could serve as a guide for USAID projects in the region. In order to do so, the information gaps identified during the first phase of the study had to be closed and to that end, field surveys to be conducted over a two month period were planned. These surveys would more clearly identify origins, volumes, and destinations of produce flows and traffic levels in the project area, evaluate the existing infrastructure (especially relating to waterways, warehouses, and collection points), and define zones within the project area which had high production potential (target zones). The surveys were planned to be intensive in order to gather the maximum amount of data possible in the two month time period. Unfortunately, only a week after the surveys began, the Team members were evacuated. A report detailing the work done up to the point of evacuation was submitted to USAID during January 1992.

Contract Funds

Dollar expenditures charged against this project through December 1991 are included in Annex 4. Charges to be included in a final invoice to USAID were not available at the time this report was written.

Counterpart Funds

Counterpart Fund expenditures charged against this project were not available for inclusion in this report because these records were left in Kinshasa to be stored by USAID. The nature of the evacuation necessitated this action.

Project Property

Almost all of the property managed by this phase of Project 098 was inherited from the first phase. Very little procurement took place in the period February 1990 - December 1991 by the Project. That which was dollar procured during this period included two computer systems with printers and operating software, one desk, one filing cabinet, an electric typewriter, and a geographic positioning unit. USAID also purchased four vehicles for the Project. That which was dollar funded and inherited can be divided into three primary categories - 1) hydrographic equipment which was to be used for activities in conjunction with the RVF; 2) housing, furniture and equipment; 3) vehicles; and 4) a few pieces of office furniture and equipment. The reason for just a few pieces of property in the offices was that most office property was purchased with counterpart funds.

During the time that the Project operated, most of the Project's property was transferred, under instructions received from USAID, to the GOZ (RVF), to other projects, and to USAID. Also, a great deal of property was looted from both the residence of Mr. Forsythe, the Project office in Kinshasa, and possibly the USAID warehouse in Kinshasa during the military revolt of September 23 & 24, 1991. A final reconciliation was not possible as Team members were not allowed to return to Zaire following the evacuation at the end of September. At the end of November 1991, Mr. Forsythe did return to Kinshasa to try to close the project office, terminate staff, and ship LBI documents out of Zaire. At that time, an inventory was conducted of that property which was located at the Project office. When it was decided that the Project would be terminated USAID contacted LBI and previewed three months to close out the Project. Mr. Forsythe, under instructions from USAID, had five days at the end of November to do the same thing.

Attached to this report are Annexes showing the state of the Project inventory prior to September 23-24, 1991 and that which was inventoried during the short period during which Mr. Forsythe returned to Kinshasa to close the Project office. Annex I is a list of dollar funded inventory; Annex II is a list of Counterpart Funded inventory; and Annex III shows what remained following September 23-24, 1991.

N.B. - Annexes I & II are complete lists, that is, all property managed by the Project. Particular attention should be paid to the column headings "LOC" and "Person Respon." These columns indicate the location of the property as of the time of the evacuation and the person/organization who was responsible for the property at the time that the Project operations ceased. Where the "Person Respon" is not a member of the Project team it is indicated that the property was transferred to that person/organization. The same logic follows for the CPF funded inventory. Annex III indicates what remained after the looting of the Project office and the Forsythe residence and that which was to be turned over to LOPASO following the departure of Mr. Forsythe in early December 1991. The decision to turn this property over to LOPASO was Mr. Forsythe's only alternative at the time and this action was concurred with by USAID. Although two project employees were to remain on the payroll until December 15, 1991 to oversee this transfer, as of December 20, 1991, no action had been taken by LOPASO and the two Project employees were instructed by the USAID Executive Officer, who was present in Kinshasa at the time, to deliver the keys to LOPASO at their offices. LOPASO was paid for these services. However, it is unclear at this time whether or not the property was delivered to the USAID warehouse.
