* This table includes the amount from State taxes on all motor-vehicle fuel. In some States, however, the tax on fuel is levied on all fuel used in the State, whether or not it is used for the propulsion of a motor-vehicle. These taxes are included here, but have been shown from a "total" column applying to the whole State rather than from a "motor-vehicle" column. Some States impose additional restrictions on the use of motor-vehicle fuel in certain areas. These restrictions are included here, but have been shown from a "total" column rather than from a "motor-vehicle" column. Other restrictions, such as those on fuel used for agricultural purposes, are excluded here, but have been shown from a "total" column rather than from a "motor-vehicle" column. The amount of tax on motor-vehicle fuel is shown in the "total" column. The amount of tax on motor-vehicle fuel is shown in the "total" column. The amount of tax on motor-vehicle fuel is shown in the "total" column.

<sup>1</sup> This table is one of a series (MF-21 through MF-25) giving an analysis of motor-fuel consumption. Table MF-23 shows total consumption by month, and table MF-25 shows highway use of special fuels by month (see notes to table MF-21). Table MF-24 shows the gallons of gasoline used for nonhighway purposes reported in column 2 of MF-21. "Construction" is included with "industrial and commercial" in the classification of some States.
<sup>2</sup> Recent studies and other sources were used by the Federal Highway Administration to make estimates of marine use for States where information was either unavailable or incomplete.
<sup>3</sup> Data on private and commercial nonhighway use of gasoline were obtained mainly from an analysis of reported expenditures and receipts. A complete and uniform classification of nonhighway use is impossible because (1) there are considerable differences among the States in the definition of "land and water" for purposes of reporting expenditures and receipts; (2) many States have not reported the total nonhighway use of gasoline for certain months and did not report the total nonhighway use of gasoline for all States except Arizona. The data shown for many States estimates of marine use; see footnote 3.
<sup>4</sup> Much of the fuel consumed by large aviation users, who are licensed air carriers, is not included in tables MF-21, MF-22, and MF-24. This use was not reported and did not enter the State's taxing system.
<sup>5</sup> Does not include an estimated 7.9 billion gallons of aviation jet fuel.

1) This table summarizes the receipts from motor-vehicle taxes and from motor-vehicle license fees and special imposts on motor carriers, which are reported separately in table 20-1 and 20-2, respectively. Receipts in this column contain adjustments for uncollected balances, refunds in transit, etc. and are jurisdictional. In many States, Public Utility Districts, etc., license and transfer taxes, which are reported in table 20-1, are included in the receipts from motor-vehicle taxes. Where such taxes are levied on other classes of motor vehicles, such as tractors, etc., they are reported in table 20-2. The amounts shown do not necessarily include amounts from highway use requiring a penalty under the provisions of the Motor-Vehicle Act of 1951. Such amounts can be determined only after analysis in the light of State law in effect in 1971.
