NEED FOR USES: Section 731(f) of the Financial Institutions Reform, Recovery, and Enforcement Act of 1989 ("FIRREA," Pub. L. No. 101-73, 103 Stat. 183) amended the Federal National Mortgage Association Charter Act (12 U.S.C. 1717(b)(2)) and the Federal Home

Loan Mortgage Corporation Act (12 U.S.C. 1454) by giving the Finance Board the responsibility for this survey by which the mortgage purchase price limitations of these two agencies are determined. This survey provides the only comprehensive and consistent source of information on conventional (i.e., not insured by the Federal Housing Administration or guaranteed by the Veterans Administration) mortgage rates and terms, and prices on houses financed by conventional mortgages. It is the only nationally consistent source of house price and mortgage term information available for states and metropolitan areas.

The information is used for general statistical purposes and program evaluation. In addition, certain statistical uses are specifically required by statute or regulation. These include use of the data by the Office of Thrift Supervision (formerly the Federal Home Loan Bank Board) as an adjustable-rate mortgage ("ARM") index and use of the data by the Internal Revenue Service in the determination of "safe-harbor" limits for state mortgage revenue bond programs. Data from the survey is used as additional information by the Federal Housing Administration in adjusting the size of mortgage loans it insures. Several States also use the data generated by this report in adjusting various programs. In addition, the data has been used in judicial proceedings, especially Tax Court cases concerning the number and amount of up-front "points" charged on mortgage loans.

Dated: August 12, 1991.

Federal Housing Finance Board.

J. Stephen Britt,

Executive Director.
