SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

History

On Monday, June 19, 2006, the FAA proposed to amend part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR part 71) to revise Class E airspace upward from 700 ft. and 1,200 ft. above the surface at Barter Island, AK (71 FR 35225). The action was proposed in order to create Class E airspace sufficient in size to contain aircraft while executing two new and one amended SIAP for the Barter Island Airport. The new approaches are (1) Area Navigation (Global Positioning System) (RNAV (GPS)) RWY 07, Original; and (2) RNAV (GPS) RWY 25, Original. The amended approach is the Non Directional Beacon (NDB) RWY 07, Amendment 1. Class E controlled airspace extending upward from 700 ft. and 1,200 ft. above the surface in the Barter Island area is revised by this action. Interested parties were invited to participate in this rulemaking proceeding by submitting written comments on the proposal to the FAA. No public comments have been received; thus the rule is adopted as proposed.

The area will be depicted on aeronautical charts for pilot reference. The coordinates for this airspace docket are based on North American Datum 83. The Class E airspace areas designated as 700/1,200 ft. transition areas are published in paragraph 6005 of FAA Order 7400.9N, Airspace Designations and Reporting Points, dated September 1, 2005, and effective September 15, 2005, which is incorporated by reference in 14 CFR 71.1. The Class E airspace designation listed in this document will be published subsequently in the Order.

The Rule

This amendment to 14 CFR part 71 revises Class E airspace at the Barter Island Airport, Alaska. This Class E airspace is revised to accommodate aircraft executing two new SIAPs and one amended SIAP, and will be depicted on aeronautical charts for pilot reference. The intended effect of this rule is to provide adequate controlled airspace for Instrument Flight Rule (IFR) operations at Barter Island Airport, Alaska.

The FAA has determined that this regulation only involves an established body of technical regulations for which frequent and routine amendments are necessary to keep them operationally current. It, therefore—(1) Is not a “significant regulatory action” under Executive Order 12866; (2) is not a “significant rule” under DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034; February 26, 1979); and (3) does not warrant preparation of a regulatory evaluation as the anticipated impact is so minimal. Since this is a routine matter that will only affect air traffic procedures and air navigation, it is certified that this rule will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities under the criteria of the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

The FAA’s authority to issue rules regarding aviation safety is found in Title 49 of the United States Code. Subtitle 1, Section 106 describes the authority of the FAA Administrator. Subtitle VII, Aviation Programs, describes in more detail the scope of the agency’s authority.

This rulemaking is promulgated under the authority described in Subtitle VII, Part A, Subpart 1, Section 40103, Sovereignty and use of airspace. Under that section, the FAA is charged with prescribing regulations to ensure the safe and efficient use of the navigable airspace. This regulation is within the scope of that authority because it creates Class E airspace sufficient in size to contain aircraft executing instrument procedures for the Barter Island Airport and represents the FAA’s continuing effort to safely and efficiently use the navigable airspace.

Canadian Charter Air Taxi Operators

AGENCY: Department of Transportation (DOT); Office of the Secretary (OST).
ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: DOT is updating its rule concerning Canadian charter air taxis to make the rule consistent with the 1995 U.S.-Canada bilateral aviation agreement. When promulgated in 1981, the rule comported with the 1974 U.S.-Canada bilateral aviation agreement governing non-scheduled air services. However, the rule has not been updated to reflect the more liberal 1995 bilateral. Consequently, the rule, in its current form, contains certain restrictions on Canadian charter air taxis that are contrary to the 1995 bilateral. This final rule eliminates or amends those provisions. It also makes several other technical changes to the rule and adds a provision making it clear that Canadian charter air taxis are exempt from the statutory requirement of foreign air carriers to file family assistance plans.

DATES: Effective Date: This rule is effective on September 22, 2006.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

Part 294 of the Department's aviation economic regulations (14 CFR part 294) exempts foreign air carriers that have registered with the Department as "Canadian charter air taxis" from various provisions in Title 49 of the United States Code, including the requirement in sections 41301 and 41302 to obtain a foreign air carrier permit before engaging in foreign air transportation. In 1981, when the Civil Aeronautics Board¹ (CAB) promulgated part 294, it intended to provide Canadian charter air taxis with a simplified and expedited economic licensing process. Central to the CAB's reasoning in establishing this special licensing status for Canadian charter air taxis was its opinion that "we [the United States] have good aviation relations with our Canadian neighbors"—a description that is even more apt today.²

On February 24, 1995, the United States and Canada greatly liberalized their commercial aviation relationship by signing the Air Transport Agreement Between the Government of the United States of America and the Government of Canada (hereinafter the "Agreement" or the "1995 Bilateral"). Among other things, the Agreement granted American and Canadian air carriers, including Canadian charter air taxis, rights to conduct a wide array of operations not permitted under the countries' previous bilateral agreement governing non-scheduled air services, which had been in force since 1974 (hereinafter the

"1974 Bilateral").³ On November 10, 2005, Delegations from the United States and Canada initialed an ad referendum protocol to the Agreement that would further expand the traffic rights of the air carriers of both nations (hereinafter the "Protocol").⁴

In 1981, at the time part 294 was promulgated, it comported with the 1974 Bilateral. However, part 294 has not been updated since then to reflect the more liberal aviation relationship between the U.S. and Canada that is set forth in the 1995 Bilateral. Consequently, although intended to facilitate the trans-border operations of Canadian charter air taxis, part 294 has ironically become, in some respects, an impediment to them. For example, the plain language of the following provisions of part 294 contradicts either the spirit or the language of the Agreement or the language as proposed by the Protocol:

(1) Sections 294.81(b) and (b)(1) permit stopovers at points within the United States only on round-trip flights originating in Canada. The Agreement permits stopovers on one-way and round-trip flights originating in either country.⁵ Section 294.81(b)(2) requires that the same aircraft stay with its passengers throughout their journey. The Agreement contains no such restriction.

(2) Section 294.82 prohibits registrants from transporting persons or property whose journey includes a prior, intervening, or subsequent movement by air to or from a point not in the United States or Canada. However, the Agreement allows the transportation of persons and property by airlines designated by each party to carry international charter traffic of passengers and cargo between any point or points in the territory of the other party and any point or points in a third country or countries, provided such traffic is carried via the territory of the party that has designated the airline and makes a stopover in that territory for at least two consecutive nights.⁶ Moreover, the Protocol would further expand third-country traffic rights by removing the two-night stopover requirement, and, instead, merely require that the flight in question make a traffic stop in the airline's homeland.⁷ Accordingly, we are removing section 294.82, as described below, in order to make clear that the third-country traffic rights applicable to Canadian charter air taxis are coextensive with the rights of all Canadian airlines under the Agreement, or, when the Protocol becomes effective, the new rights under that Protocol.

(3) Section 294.88 prohibits certain trans-border operations to or from points west of Blind River, Ontario, and east of the Ontario-Manitoba provincial line (the "Northwest Ontario restriction"). The Agreement grants traffic rights to the carriers of both nations between any points or points in the United States and any point or points in Canada.⁸ The CAB included the Northwest Ontario restriction in part 294 because the Canadian Air Transport Committee had imposed a similar restriction on the operations of U.S. air taxis.⁹ We are aware of no such restriction today on U.S. air taxis and, therefore, see no basis for the Northwest Ontario restriction to remain in part 294.

(4) Section 294.89 imposes an uplift ratio. The Agreement explicitly prohibits uplift ratios.¹⁰

These differences between part 294 and the Agreement have created confusion in the aviation industry and imposed unnecessary costs on Canadian charter air taxis.¹¹ Moreover, they undermine the original intent of part 294, which was to expedite the licensing process for Canadian charter air taxis. Under present circumstances, there is a strong incentive for Canadian charter air taxis to eschew the "expedited" registration process of part 294 in favor of undertaking to meet the very requirements from which the CAB sought to relieve them, i.e., from having to obtain a foreign air carrier permit. In recognition of these issues, and because, as a general matter, the Department seeks to remove unnecessary regulatory burdens and to advance the United States-Canada air transport relationship, ⁹ Order 78-11-87. In the Matter of Charter Authority of Canadian Foreign Air Carriers, (CAB Docket 34051) (November 16, 1978).

¹⁰ Article 4 of the Agreement.

¹¹ The Department has anecdotal evidence of Canadian charter air taxi operators turning down business otherwise permitted under the Agreement for fear of violating part 294. Some carriers have incurred the added legal costs of applying to the Department for exemptions from certain of the contradictory provisions in part 294 as a means of avoiding possible enforcement action for violating those provisions.

¹ The Department assumed the CAB's jurisdiction over aviation economic matters when the CAB "sunsetted" on December 31, 1984. Civil Aeronautics Board Sunset Act of 1984, Public Law 98-443, October 4, 1984, and Airline Deregulation Act of 1978, Public Law 95-504, October 24, 1978.

⁴ Protocol to the Air Transport Agreement Between the Governments of the United States of America and the Government of Canada, initialed ad referendum at Washington on November 10, 2005. The Protocol has not yet been signed by the two Governments. By its terms, it will not come into effect before September 1, 2006.

⁵ Annex III of the Agreement.

the Department amends 14 CFR 294.81 and removes 14 CFR 294.82; 294.88; and 294.89.

In addition, the Foreign Air Carrier Family Support Act of 1997 (Pub. L. 105-148) (hereinafter "FACFSA"), added to Title 49 of the United States Code section 41313, "Plans to address needs of families of passengers involved in foreign air carrier accidents." Section 41313 requires all foreign air carriers with authority to operate to or from the United States to develop and submit plans to the Department and the National Transportation Safety Board (NTSB) that address the needs of families of passengers involved in certain aircraft accidents.

In 1998, the Department interpreted section 41313 as not applying to small aircraft operations and issued an order that exempted all foreign air carriers holding Departmental authority to conduct foreign air transportation using only small aircraft from the requirements of section 41313.¹² Although this order was served on those Canadian charter air taxis that, at the time, were registered with the Department, the exemption was, through an administrative oversight, not subsequently codified in 14 CFR part 294. Therefore, the Department takes this opportunity to amend 14 CFR 294.10 (Exemption authority) to codify this order and, thereby, make it clear that Canadian charter air taxis are not required to submit family assistance plans to the Department or the NTSB.

As a final matter, the Department hereby makes the following additional, non-substantive administrative changes to part 294:

(1) Amend section 294.2(a) to reflect the current U.S.-Canada bilateral aviation agreement signed in 1995.

(2) Amend sections 294.20, 294.20(b), 294.21(b), 294.22, and 294.40 to reflect the change in organizational structure that occurred when the Special Authorities Division, which is the Departmental program office that administers part 294, was transferred from the Office of Aviation Analysis to the Office of International Aviation.

(3) Amend sections 294.3(e), 294.21(g), 294.50(d) to clarify that air carrier authority granted by the Government of Canada is a condition of receiving and maintaining an effective registration under part 294.

(4) Amend sections 294.21(e)(1) to make clear that the onus rests on the carrier, not the Department, to provide the Federal Aviation Administration with a copy of the carrier's approved OST Form 4505.

(5) Amend sections 294.22 to make clear that a refiling may be made using electronic mail, as well as by other means, so long as it is received by the Department within 30 days of a change in a carrier's name or operations.

(6) Amend sections 294.32 to identify the correct section in 14 CFR part 212 that covers the bonding and escrow requirements applicable to foreign air carriers.

Regulatory Analysis and Notices

The Administrative Procedure Act (APA) (5 U.S.C. 553) generally requires public notice and an opportunity for public comment before issuance of a final rule. It, however, provides an exception when an agency finds that there is good cause for dispensing with such procedures because they are impracticable, unnecessary, or contrary to the public interest. We have determined that, under 5 U.S.C. 553(b)(3)(B), it is unnecessary and contrary to the public interest to utilize the notice of proposed rulemaking and public comment procedures for this rule because it is a corrective action required to make the regulation consistent with an international agreement. The Department notes that, as a temporary measure, it has in the past granted carrier-specific exemptions obviating any problems for the recipient that would have been caused by the discrepancies between part 294 and the Agreement.¹³ In addition, the rule codifies an existing Departmental order exempting Canadian charter air taxis from the statutory requirement of foreign air carriers to file family assistance plans. Thus, in effect, the revised regulations merely codify current Departmental practice. All other changes are purely administrative in nature.

Executive Order 12866 (Regulatory Planning and Review) and DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures

The Department has determined that the amendments to 14 CFR part 294 in the final rule are not a significant regulatory action under Executive Order 12866 or under the Department's Regulatory Policies and Procedures. It has not been reviewed by the Office of Management and Budget. The amendments will impose no additional costs on the affected carriers. Rather, they will minimally reduce regulatory compliance costs by eliminating any need for Canadian charter air taxis to apply for an exemption to the outdated provisions of 14 CFR part 294 that are not in consonance with the Agreement. Because these amendments will have minimal economic impact on the covered carriers, no further regulatory evaluation is necessary.

Regulatory Flexibility Act

The Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.) requires an agency to assess the impact of regulation on small entities unless the agency determines that a rule is not expected to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. The Department certifies that this final rule will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. The amendments to 14 CFR part 294 will not change U.S. law regarding the trans-border operations of Canadian charter air taxis or the rights available to Canadian charter air taxis under the 1995 U.S.-Canada bilateral aviation agreement, nor will they add any regulatory requirements.

Executive Order 13132 (Federalism)

This final rule has been analyzed in accordance with the principles and criteria contained in Executive Order 13132. The Department has determined that this proposal will not have a substantial direct effect on the States, on the relationship between the national government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government, and therefore has no federalism implications.

Executive Order 13084

This final rule has been analyzed in accordance with the principles and criteria contained in Executive Order 13084 ("Consultation and Coordination with Indian Tribal Governments"). Because this final rule will not significantly or uniquely affect the Indian tribal communities, and will not impose substantial direct compliance costs, the funding and consultation requirements of the Executive Order do not apply.

Unfunded Mandates Reform Act

Title II of the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995 (the Act), enacted as Public Law 104-4 on March 22, 1995, requires each Federal agency, to the extent permitted by law, to prepare a written assessment of the effects of any Federal mandate in a proposed or final agency rule that may result in the expenditure by State, local, and tribal governments, in the aggregate, or by the private sector, of $100 million or more (adjusted annually for inflation) in any one year. This final rule does not contain any Federal mandate that would result in such expenditures. Therefore, the requirements of Title II of the Act do not apply.

Paperwork Reduction Act

This final rule does not contain information collection requirements that require approval by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) under the Paperwork Reduction Act (44 U.S.C. 2507 et seq.).
