SIGNIFICANT ACTIONS

A. Quarterly Milestone Activity

Sustainable Fisheries and Protected Resource Management Division continue to work on Steller sea lion RPA's. Once final regulations are implemented, AED will form a strategy for enforcement and for implementing VMS as required.

B. Major Cases

FOREIGN FISHING VESSELS SEIZURES

No vessels were seized during the quarter.

OTHER CASES

The following cases and issues have significant outcomes or interest. They are listed under the priorities agreed upon between AKED, the NMFS Regional Administrator, and GCAK.

ESA/MMPA

Steller Sea Lions:

- In April 2001, commercial fisherman Stanley Roy Pedersen, a resident of Chignik Lagoon, Alaska, was sentenced to 46 months in jail by the U.S. District Court. Pedersen was convicted on three federal offenses that are related to incidents in 1999 where he was observed actually shooting, and shooting at, endangered Steller sea lions. He was also convicted of being a convicted felon unlawfully in possession of a firearm, and for being a prohibited person (as the result of having also been previously convicted of a misdemeanor crime of domestic violence assault) unlawfully in possession of a firearm. The U.S. District Court Judge also ordered Pedersen to serve three years of supervised release upon his release from imprisonment.

Cook Inlet Beluga Whales:

- The Alaska Enforcement Division continued its patrol schedule and outreach program. The native hunters are allowed to take one beluga this year, and the hunt has been postponed twice in the last month due to weather. AED plans to monitor this hunt and remains in contact with the hunters for scheduling. Additionally, AED spent 278 hours patrolling by vehicle, boat, and plane. There were 61 COPPS contacts and three hotline reports received. Enforcement Officers made 23 beluga sighting reports which were forwarded to PRMD.

Record keeping and Reporting Violations:

- International Seafoods of Alaska, Inc. (ISA), which operates a fish processing facility in Kodiak, Alaska, plead guilty to a felony false-reporting charge in United States District Court. The company was charged in April, 2001, by the United States Attorney's Office in Anchorage with one count of submitting a false statement to the National Marine Fisheries Service. The charge stems from a delivery of pollock received by the company's Kodiak processing plant from the F/V Amber Dawn in January, 1999. In settlement, ISA agreed to pay a $150,000.00 fine, with an additional $46,000.00 (representing the fair market value of all overages of fish received by the Kodiak processing facility in January, February, and March of 1999) over a five year period of probation. In addition, as a special condition of probation, ISA was ordered to place a public announcement, at the company's expense, in the "National Fisherman" (a fisheries trade journal with national circulation), for three consecutive months. The announcement will acknowledge wrong-doing by ISA for submitting the false report, and emphasize the importance of accurate reporting as a fisheries management tool.

C. COPPS

On July 2, 2001, regulations were implemented that prohibit the approach of humpback whales within 100 yards. In preparation for these regulations, the Alaska Enforcement Division prepared a video that explains the new regulations and the regulatory process. Copies of this video were sent to all the AED field offices, the major cruise ship companies, and charter boat associations. Local television stations have agreed to play the eight-minute video during local broadcasts.

The Alaska Enforcement Division and the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service completed an educational display for the new International Terminal of the Anchorage International Airport. The display focuses on ESA and MMPA restrictions on import and export of listed species. This display is titled WORLD WILDLIFE and has three glass cases. The left/right cases show different items of illegal products (such as seal skins, whale baleen, etc.) The center case has three photo displays of endangered/threatened species that rotate and can be changed from time to time. A message is displayed that warns visitors of buying illegal products made from a protected species and the associated consequences. Various fish and wildlife laws are also noted. In addition, there is an audio message explaining that many wildlife species are in trouble, and the public can help by not purchasing these items. The message can be translated and narrated in 4 other languages, as well as English.
