Funds help States and localities undertake comprehensive systemic education reform and create State and local systems of school-to-work transition for students.

Goals 2000:
State and local education systemic improvement.-State grants support State and local education improvement efforts to help all students reach challenging academic standards. At least 90 percent of the funds are provided to local educational agencies. Forty-eight States participated in the first year of funding. Funds also support evaluation, research, and direct grants to local educational agencies in urban and rural areas that enroll significant proportions of students from disadvantaged backgrounds.

Parental assistance.-Centers in 28 States help provide parents with knowledge and skills they need to participate effectively in their children's education. The requested increase for 1997 would support centers in 14 additional States.
School-to-Work Opportunities.-School-to-work programs are jointly administered by the Departments of Education and Labor. An identical amount is provided for the Department of Labor to support these activities. Competitive, 5year grants are awarded to States that have completed and are ready to implement their school-to-work plans. Twentyseven States are currently in their first or second year of these grants.

Direct grants are also provided to local communities for school-to-work systems. By mid-1996 ninety-one local partnerships, including 45 that are serving young people who live in urban and rural areas characterized by high-poverty, will have received awards and be setting up their systems. These funds also support a national evaluation, research, and development activities to provide national leadership and analysis of school-to-work opportunities initiatives.

Bilingual education.-The 1994 reauthorization of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act aligned bilingual education programs with the broader educational reforms underway in States and communities. These programs provide assistance to local educational agencies and other entities to develop and enhance their capacity to provide high-quality instructional programs to children and youth of limited English proficiency. Programs are designed to teach English and to assist these students to achieve to the same challenging State content and performance standards expected of all children and youth. Aid is also given to train educational personnel to serve limited English proficient children, to build State capacity to improve educational services for these children, and for information dissemination, studies, and evaluations.

Foreign language assistance.-The foreign language assistance program provides competitive grants to State and local educational agencies to improve the quality of foreign language instruction for elementary and secondary school students.
Immigrant education.-The immigrant education program provides grants to school districts to help finance educational services for immigrant students. Participation is limited to districts with 500 immigrant students or districts in which immigrant children represent at least 3 percent of the enrollment. Awards are made to State educational agencies, which make subgrants to eligible local educational agencies. Proposed appropriation language would permit States to distribute these funds on either a formula or discretionary grant basis.

Vocational rehabilitation State grants.-The basic State grant program provides Federal matching funds to State vocational rehabilitation (VR) agencies to assist individuals with physical or mental impairments to become gainfully employed. Services provided include vocational evaluation, counseling, mental and physical restoration, education, vocational training, work adjustment, job placement, and post-employment services. Priority is given to serving those with the most severe disabilities.

In 1995, there was a 5 percent increase in the total number of eligible individuals in the VR system. In that year, 35 of the 82 VR agencies could not serve all individuals determined to be eligible for the program. Of those individuals whose cases were closed in 1995 after receiving VR services, about 60 percent achieved an employment outcome and an estimated 85 percent of these individuals entered the competitive labor market or became self-employed.
The table below presents national estimates of the number of eligible individuals in the VR system (individuals being served and eligible individuals awaiting service) and estimates of the number of individuals who achieved an employment outcome under the program.

| Individuals achieving employment outcomes | 203,035 | 209,450 |

Client assistance State grants.-Formula grants are made to States to provide assistance in informing and advising clients and applicants of benefits available under the Rehabilitation Act and, if requested, to pursue legal or administrative remedies to ensure the protection of the rights of individuals with disabilities.
Training.-Grants are made to States and public or nonprofit agencies and organizations, including institutions of higher education, to increase the number of skilled personnel available for employment in the field of rehabilitation.

Special demonstration programs.-Grants are made to develop innovative methods and comprehensive service programs to assist individuals with disabilities to achieve satisfactory vocational outcomes. Supported employment projects, which provide grants to expand or improve the provision of supported employment services to individuals with the most severe disabilities, are included under this activity.

Migratory workers.-Grants are made to State VR agencies and other nonprofit or local agencies to provide comprehensive vocational rehabilitation services to migrant or seasonal farm workers with disabilities.
Recreational programs.-Grants are made to provide individuals with disabilities with recreation and related activities to aid in their employment, mobility, independence, socialization, and community integration.

Protection and advocacy of individual rights.-Formula grants are made to State protection and advocacy systems to protect the legal and human rights of individuals with disabilities.

Projects with industry.-Grants are made to a variety of public and private organizations, including State VR agencies, community rehabilitation programs, and labor organizations to provide training in work settings to prepare individuals with disabilities for employment and career advancement in the competitive labor market.

Supported employment State grants.-Formula grants are made to assist States in developing programs with public and nonprofit organizations to provide supported employment services for individuals with the most severe disabilities who require on-going support services to enter or retain competitive employment.

Independent living.-Grants are awarded to States and nonprofit agencies for services designed to enable individuals with significant disabilities to live and function more independently.

Program Improvement.-Funds would be used to promote broad-based planning and coordination, improve accountability, and enhance the Department's ability to address critical areas of national significance in achieving the purposes of the Rehabilitation Act. Examples of program improvement activities would include technical assistance activities of national scope; the development of an effective data management and reporting system, including program performance measures; and the development of a dissemination and utilization strategy for demonstration projects of national significance.

Evaluation.-Studies are conducted to evaluate the impact and effectiveness of various programs authorized under the Rehabilitation Act. The Department is conducting a multiyear national longitudinal study of the Vocational rehabilitation State grants program.

Helen Keller National Center for Deaf-Blind Youths and Adults.-The Center provides services to deaf-blind youths and adults and provides training and technical assistance to professional and allied personnel at its national headquarters center and through its regional representatives and affiliate agencies.

National Institute on Disability and Rehabilitation Re-search.-The Institute carries out a comprehensive and coordinated program of rehabilitation research and related activities. Through grants and contracts, it supports research and training centers, rehabilitation engineering centers, research and demonstration projects, information dissemination and utilization projects, and training activities.

Assistive technology.-Grants are made to States to support systems change and advocacy activities designed to develop and implement consumer-responsive comprehensive statewide programs of technology-related assistance for individuals of all ages with disabilities.

This institution provides college preparatory, undergraduate, and continuing education programs for persons who are deaf, and graduate programs related to deafness for students who are deaf and students who are hearing. The University also conducts basic and applied research and provides public service programs for persons who are deaf and persons who work with them.
Gallaudet operates two pre-college programs on the main campus of the University. The Kendall Demonstration Elementary School serves students who are deaf from infancy through age 15, and the Model Secondary School for the Deaf serves students who are deaf of high school age. Both schools also develop and disseminate information on effective educational techniques and strategies for teachers and professionals working with students who are deaf or hard of hearing.

In 1995, the Federal appropriation represented 65.4 percent of the University's operating budget, excluding Federal financial aid, vocational rehabilitation, and competitive grants, and 98.7 percent of the operating budgets of the related elementary and secondary schools. Funds are also requested for endowment matching grants.

Vocational and adult education.-As part of the GI Bill for America's Workers initiative, which is designed to promote lifelong learning and economic security for all Americans, the Administration proposed in fiscal year 1996 to restructure Federal workforce-related education and training programs, including those under the Carl D. Perkins Vocational and Applied Technology Education Act, the Adult Education Act, and the National Literacy Act. As proposed by the Administration, State formula grant programs for vocational education and for adult education would be consolidated into a single State grant for each program. In addition, national activities for both vocational and adult education would support State efforts through research, development, technical assistance, and evaluation. The Administration and the Congress are currently working together to ensure that new legislation in support of this initiative is enacted in 1996.

Pending enactment of the new legislation, the fiscal year 1997 budget estimate reflects funding under current law. Funds will be allocated for specific activities once new legislation is enacted.

Perkins Vocational and Applied Technology Education Act.

${ }^{1}$ The Ninth Continuing Resolution, P.L. 104-99, provides for a maximum Pell grant of "at least $$ 2,440$." The preliminary Federal Pell Grant Program payment and disbursement schedules for 1996-97 are therefore calculated using a $$ 2,400$ maximum award. However, the President's 1996 policy for the Federal Pell Grant Program calls for a maximum award level of $$ 2,620$. The Pell grant estimates for 1996 are based on an assumed maximum award level of $$ 2,620$. Establishing this maximum award level would require the joint agreement of the Administration and the Congress.
${ }^{2}$ Includes obligations from budget authority in the amount of $$ 3,165$ thousand in 1994 and 1995 for benefits for participants in Operation Desert Shield/Desert Storm appropriated by transfer from the Department of Defense pursuant to P.L. 102-27, the Dire Emergency Supplemental Appropriations Act of 1991

${ }^{1}$ Includes in all years institutional matching share of defaulted notes assigned from institutions to the Education Department.

Federal Pell Grants.-Undergraduate students establish eligibility for these grants under award and need determination rules set out in the authorizing statute and the annual appropriation act. The maximum award for FY 1997 would be $2,700.
Federal Work-Study.-Federal grants are awarded by formula to qualifying institutions, which develop and provide part-time jobs for eligible undergraduate and graduate students with demonstrated need. Federal grants in most cases pay 75 percent of a student's hourly earnings, with the remainder paid by the employer. Hourly earnings must not be less than the Federal minimum wage. Institutions are required to spend at least 5 percent of their Work-Study allocation to pay students working in community service jobs. The President is proposing to increase funding for WorkStudy over the next four years to help one million students per year work their way through college by the year 2000.
Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants.Federal funds are awarded by formula to qualifying institutions, which use these funds at their discretion to award grants to undergraduate students, with priority for Pell Grant recipients and others with exceptional need. The Federal share of such grants may not exceed 75 percent of the total grant.

Perkins Loan Program.-Schools award loans from revolving funds, composed of Federal Capital Contributions, collections on prior year loans, and Federal payments for loan cancellations granted in exchange for specified types of teaching, military or public service.

Perkins Loans-Cancellations.-Under the Perkins Loan (formerly national direct student loan (NDSL)) cancellation program, institutional revolving funds are reimbursed for indebtedness cancelled as a result of a borrower engaging in certain public service occupations.
The Higher Education Amendments of 1992 broadened statutory cancellations in the Perkins Loan program. This has resulted in a progressive increase in the usage of cancellations provisions by Perkins Loan borrowers in recent years.
Gatekeeping in Student Financial Assistance Programs.The Federal student aid programs will make available more than $$ 41$ billion in grant, loan, and work-study assistance to about 7.3 million students in the academic year 199798. The Department of Education, together with States and accrediting agencies, works to ensure that institutions of higher education participating in the Federal student aid programs meet a basic standard of quality in the education and training of their students, and that these institutions are administratively capable and financially responsible.
Since 1993, the Department has terminated the participation of more than 300 institutions that have violated the Federal regulations. In 1997, the Department plans to complete its recertification of all institutions currently eligible to participate. It also plans to develop a system of risk analysis that will better enable the Department to identify institutions with potentially serious problems, and to improve major elements of its information management system, including the National Student Loan Data System and the Postsecondary Education Participants System.
The Department also plans to provide regulatory reliefsuch as less frequent recertification, less frequent submission of compliance audits, and exemption from certain regulatory requirements-to institutions that have demonstrated outstanding administration of federal programs and strong financial responsibility.

In addition, the Department helps students make better decisions by requiring schools to provide important information about their education programs. It enforces long-standing statutory requirements for institutions to inform prospective students of educational programs, college costs, and financial aid. Final regulations to implement the Student Right to Know Act, published in 1995, require institutions to disclose completion and graduation rates for students who enter the institution after July 1, 1996.

The following tables display student aid funds available, the number of aid awards, average awards, and the unduplicated count of students receiving awards, based on current law and legislation proposed for later transmittal. The tables include aid under the Federal Family Education Loan (FFEL) program, formerly the Guaranteed Student Loan (GSL) program, the William D. Ford Direct Loan (DL) Program, as well as under programs in this account. The tables include the effects of matching funds wherever applicable. Perkins loan amounts also reflect available capital in institutional revolving funds, including loan collection and loan cancellation receipts. FFEL and DL amounts reflect the capital actually loaned, not the Federal costs of those loans.

The Federal Government operates two major student loan programs: the Federal Family Education Loan (FFEL) pro-gram-formerly the Guaranteed Student Loan (GSL) pro-gram-and the William D. Ford Direct Loan (Direct Loan) program. The President is committed to allowing individual institutions to choose which of these two programs best meets their needs and the needs of their students.
This summary section outlines the structure of these two programs, highlights their differences and similarities, and provides text tables displaying program cost data; loan volume, subsidy, default, and interest rates; and other descriptive information. As part of his January 1996 seven-year balanced budget plan, the President proposed a number of relatively small policy changes for the Direct Loan and FFEL programs. These changes are discussed as part of this program description.
From its inception in 1965 through 1995, the FFEL program has provided over $$ 196$ billion in loans to postsecondary students and their parents. Since beginning on July 1, 1994, the Direct Loan program has provided over $$ 7$ billion in loans to students and parents. Taken together, the FFEL and Direct Loan programs will make over $$ 30$ billion available in FY 1996. Because funding for these two programs is provided on a permanent indefinite basis, for budget purposes they are considered separately from other Federal student financial assistance programs. The FFEL and Direct Loan programs should be viewed in combination with these other programs, however, and with Perkins Loans in particular, as part of the overall Federal effort to ensure access to higher education.
The Direct Loan program was created by the Student Loan Reform Act (SLRA) of 1993. Under this program, the Federal Government provides funds to postsecondary institutions to originate loans. Direct Loans offer a streamlined system that is simpler for student and parent borrowers, less prone to waste and abuse, and less expensive for the Federal taxpayer than the FFEL program. The program also offers flexible repayment options that allow borrowers to consider lowerpaying careers, such as public service, without fear of default. In addition, at the time SLRA was passed in 1993, a gradual phase-in of direct lending was projected to save $$ 4$ billion over five years.
Loan capital in the FFEL program is provided by private lenders. The FFEL program primarily is administered by State and private nonprofit guaranty agencies that serve as intermediate loan insurers, collect defaulted loans, and provide various other services to lenders. The Government provides substantial subsidies to these guaranty agencies. The Government also pays interest subsidies to lenders for certain borrowers, as well as most costs associated with loan defaults and other write-offs.
The SLRA established statutory participation goals for the Direct Loan program of 40 percent of overall new loan volume in academic year 1995-1996, 50 percent of overall loan volume in academic years 1996-1997 and 1997-1998, and 60 percent of overall loan volume beginning in academic year 1998-1999. In addition to these goals, beginning in academic year 1996-1997, any eligible institution will be able to participate in the Direct Loan program.
The Direct Loan and FFEL programs share many basic elements. Each program offers four types of loans: Stafford, Unsubsidized Stafford, PLUS for parents, and Consolidation. Evidence of financial need is required for a student to receive a subsidized Stafford loan. The other three loan programs are available to borrowers at all income levels. Loans can be used only to meet qualified educational expenses.

For new Stafford Loans, the interest rate equals the 91day Treasury bill rate plus 2.5 percent during in-school, grace, and deferment periods, and the 91-day Treasury bill plus 3.1 percent at all other times, with a cap of 8.25 percent. Interest payments for these loans are fully subsidized by the Government while a student is in school and during grace and deferment periods. Unsubsidized Stafford loans carry the same interest rate as Stafford loans, but have no interest subsidy. For PLUS loans, the interest rate equals the $52-$ week Treasury bill rate plus 3.1 percent, with a cap of 9 percent and no interest subsidy.

Consolidation loans allow borrowers to combine loans made under Title IV of the Higher Education Act-FFEL, Direct Loans, and Perkins Loans-as well as some loans made under the Public Health Service Act. Under FFEL, the interest rate for loans made on or after July 1, 1994, equals the weighted average of the interest rate on the loans consolidated, rounded upward to the nearest whole percent. Lenders may choose to offer a lower rate. Direct Consolidation loans carry the variable Stafford interest rate.

Origination/insurance fees for each loan type are essentially the same across the two programs. Direct Loan borrowers are charged an origination fee equal to 4 percent of principal, which partially offsets Federal program operation costs. FFEL borrowers pay an origination fee to the Government equal to 3 percent of principal, and are also liable for a guaranty agency insurance premium of up to 1 percent of principal. For both programs, the Government is liable for 100 percent of cost related to death, disability, and bankruptcy.

Loan limits are also identical across the two programs. As part of his balanced budget plan, the President has proposed a $$ 15,000$ annual limit on borrowing for an individual student under the PLUS loan program. (There is currently no limit on borrowing under this program.)

In addition to these common elements, the Direct Loan and FFEL programs each have a number of unique provisions. For Direct Loans, the Government provides assistance to institutions for originating loans, including alternative origination services for institutions that are unable or unwilling to perform these functions. The Government has paid institutions that choose to originate loans $$ 10$ per borrower as compensation for their administrative expenses. As part of his balanced budget plan, the President has proposed to eliminate this payment.

Borrowers under Direct Loans may choose from among five repayment plans including income-contingent repayment ("Pay-as-you-can"), under which annual repayment amounts vary based on the income of the borrower and the amount borrowed and payments can be made over an extended period of time of up to 25 years. Borrowers may switch between repayment plans at any time. (Income-contingent repayment is not available to Direct PLUS borrowers).

For the FFEL program, lenders may receive a quarterly interest subsidy, called a special allowance, from the Government to ensure a guaranteed rate of return on their loans. Special allowance payments vary by loan type, are determined quarterly, and are based on current borrower interest rates and market-yield formulas. For recent Stafford and Unsubsidized Stafford loans, for example, the Federal Government must pay lenders a special allowance if the average 91-day Treasury bill rate for a given quarter plus 3.1 per-cent-or 2.5 percent during in-school, grace, or deferment pe-riods-is higher than the current interest rate charged borrowers.

The FFEL program includes a number of fees on lenders, holders of Consolidation loans, and the Student Loan Marketing Association (Sallie Mae). As part of his balanced budget plan, the President has proposed the following changes to these fees: (1) the current fee lenders pay upon originating a loan would be increased from 0.5 percent of principal to 0.8 percent of principal; (2) a new semiannual fee equal to 0.035 percent of outstanding principal would be applied to all holders of subsidized and unsubsidized Stafford and PLUS loans originated after July 1, 1996; and (3) the current Sallie Mae offset fee, which is equal to 0.3 percent of outstanding principal held by the association, would be extended to all other participants in the student loan secondary market, including subsidiaries and related companies.

The President has proposed a number of changes to the FFEL program's default management system. Supplemental preclaims assistance payments to guaranty agencies, which have proven ineffective in achieving their intended goal of enhancing agency default prevention activities, would be eliminated. In order to share the financial risk associated with defaults more broadly across FFEL program participants, the lender default insurance rate would be reduced from 98 percent to 95 percent, and the maximum reinsurance rate for guaranty agencies would be lowered from 98 percent to 96 percent.

The President has also proposed to reduce the amount guaranty agencies may retain from default collection to cover their collection costs from 27 percent to 18.5 percent of the amount collected. In addition, the President has proposed to codify current Government regulations allowing guaranty agencies to retain up to 18.5 percent of new Consolidation loans for which the underlying loans were in default.

Lastly, the President has proposed the return to the Government of a portion of guaranty agency reserve funds that he has determined are no longer needed. This policy would be phased in over six years.
In order to ensure the uninterrupted availability of loan funds for students and parents, Congress provided permanent funding to support student loan administration and expenses. These funds support Department personnel and contractors for Direct Loan origination and servicing as well as certain costs associated with activities common to Direct Loans, FFEL and other student assistance programs, such as application printing and processing. The President believes that the current services level of this permanent appropriation could be reduced. Discretionary funds requested for the FFEL program support Department personnel and administrative activities associated with operating the program.

The following tables display projected overall Direct Loan and FFEL costs; loan volume, number of loans, and average loan amount; descriptive data, and program activity under the President's budget and legislative request.

${ }^{1}$ Subsidy rates represent the Federal portion of non-administrative costs-principally interest subsidies and de-faults-associated with each borrowed dollar. For example, a $$ 1,000$ loan with Federal subsidy costs of $$ 100$ faults-associated with each borrowed would have a subsidy rate of 10 percent.
${ }^{2}$ Default rates displayed in this table, which reflect projected defaults over the life of a loan cohort, are used in developing program cost estimates. The Department uses other rates based on defaults occurring in the first three years of repayment, which tend to be slightly lower than those included in this table, to determine institutional eligibility to participate in Federal loan programs.
${ }^{3}$ Interest rates under the FFEL Consolidation Loan program reflect a weighted average of the rates of the loans consolidated, rounded upward to the nearest whole percentage. For the Direct Loan Consolidation Loan program, loans consolidated from the Stafford Loan program are charged the Stafford Loan interest rate. Loans program, loans consolidated from the Stafford Loan program are charged the Stafford the Stafford and Unsubsidized Stafford Loan programs are charged the Unsubsidized Stafford interest rates. Loans consolidated from the PLUS program are charged the PLUS interest rates.

Subsidy costs for the FFEL and Direct Loan programs are estimated in accordance with procedures set out in the Credit Reform Act of 1990. Subsidy costs for each loan type are estimated separately and, because costs can vary widely within a program depending on the characteristics of the individual borrower, cost estimates are aggregated from data for homogeneous groups within risk categories.

Default rates are a major cause of differences in subsidy between risk categories. The default rates in the following tables reflect estimates of the percent of borrowers who will default over the lifetime of the loans. These estimates are revised annually based on an analysis of default trends prepared each year by an independent auditor. Within each risk group, it is assumed that borrowers choosing similar repayment plans will have similar default rates, regardless of whether they borrow under the FFEL or Direct Loan program.

The risk group data below also reflect proposed policy changes and interest rate projections in the President's 1997 Budget. These factors substantially decrease subsidy rates across years in the FFEL program. Subsidy rates in the Direct Loan program are also significantly reduced, primarily as a result of interest rate projections.

${ }^{3}$ In the budget schedules, Direct Loan collections are displayed net of collection costs.
${ }^{4}$ Net default costs equal default claims minus net collections (gross collections minus contract collection costs and guaranty agency retention).
${ }^{5}$ Applies to FFEL program only.
${ }^{6}$ Includes repayment of agency advances, elimination of excess agency reserves, through direct payments to the Government and reduced reinsurance payments to the agencies, and purchase of rehabilitated loans by the agencies.
${ }^{7}$ A number of expenses related to the management of the student assistance programs are paid out of Student Loan administration funds. The largest of these, administrative expense allowances to guaranty agencies, is shown as a separate line.
${ }^{8}$ Administrative Expense Allowances paid from Student Loan administrative funds.
${ }^{9}$ Applies to Direct Loans only.

As required by the Federal Credit Reform Act of 1990, this program account records for this program the subsidy costs associated with Federal Family Education Loans (FFEL), formerly guaranteed student loans (GSL), committed in 1992 and beyond, as well as certain administrative expenses of the program. Administrative expenses include discretionary expenses for salaries, expenses and overhead of employees working directly on the program. Beginning with the 1993 cohort, mandatory administrative costs, specifically contract collection costs and supplemental pre-claims assistance, are included in the FFEL subsidy estimates of each year's cohort. The subsidy amounts are estimated on a net present value basis.
A description of the FFEL program and accompanying tables are included under the Federal Direct Student Loan program account.

The College Housing and Academic Facilities Loans Program account and the Historically Black College and University Capital Financing Program account are consolidated for presentation purposes. College Housing and Academic Facilities Loans (a direct loan program) and Historically Black College and University Capital Financing (a guaranteed loan program) will continue to be administered separately.

College Housing and Academic Facilities Program.-The Federal Credit Reform Act of 1990 separates the College Housing and Academic Facilities Loans (CHAFL) account into two distinct operating activities and budget accounts-CHAFL Program and CHAFL Liquidating. The federal administration and subsidy disbursement for loans awarded in fiscal year 1992 and beyond are recorded in the program account. The cash flows associated with loans originating before fiscal year 1992 are recorded in the liquidating account.
CHAFL supports financing for the reconstruction, renovation, and construction of academic facilities, housing and other postsecondary educational facilities for students and faculty. Institutions receive direct interest-subsidized loans of 5.5 percent. This financing is intended to help higher education institutions finance construction and renovation activities on more favorable financing terms than available in the private market. This account is only partially self-financing since the amount of interest paid by borrowers, 5.5 percent, is lower than the amount the Department must pay Treasury for capital borrowed to finance the loans. The subsidy covers the difference. To meet the required repayment of interest and principal each year to Treasury, the Federal Credit Reform Act of 1990 has provided permanent appropriation authority.
No loan limitation or corresponding loan subsidy funds are requested for the CHAFL program. The 1997 budget requests funds for continuing administrative activities only.

Historically Black College and University Capital Financing Program.-The Historically Black College and University (HBCU) Capital Financing Program was authorized by the Higher Education Act Amendments of 1992 to provide HBCUs with private capital for capital projects such as repairs, renovation and construction of classrooms, libraries, laboratories, dormitories, instructional equipment, and research instrumentation. The 1994 appropriation provided the authority to enter into insurance agreements with a private for-profit bonding authority to guarantee no more than $$ 357,000,000$ loan principal plus accrued unpaid interest for taxable bonds. The bonding authority will issue the bonds and establish an escrow account in which 10 percent of each institution's principal is deposited. This amount is estimated to be sufficient to cover all potential delinquencies and defaults. The 1997 budget requests funds for continuing Federal administrative activities only.

The College Housing and Academic Facilities Loans Liquidating Account records all cash flows to and from the Government resulting from direct loans made to schools and colleges for the reconstruction, renovation, and construction of academic facilities, housing and other postsecondary education facilities from loans obligated prior to fiscal year 1992. The Secretary pays, on average, 8.68 percent interest on funds borrowed for liquidating account loans. To meet the required repayment of interest and principal each year to Treasury, the Federal Credit Reform Act of 1990 has provided permanent authority.
At the end of 1995, total delinquencies for this account were $$ 987$ thousand.

Note.-A regular 1996 appropriation for this account had not been enacted at the time this budget was prepared. The 1996 amounts included in this budget are based on the levels provided in three continuing resolutions: P.L. 104-91, P.L. 104-92, and P.L. 10499.

Program operations.-Title VII, Section 702, of the Higher Education Act of 1965, as amended, authorizes such sums as may be necessary to pay obligations incurred prior to 1987 under the Higher Education Facilities Loan Program previously authorized under Title VII, Part C. Prior to 1987, this program provided direct loans at 5.5 percent interest, repayable within 50 years, to colleges, universities, and higher education building agencies for the construction, reconstruction, or renovation of academic facilities. No new loan commitments have been made since 1981. The Higher Education Act Amendments of 1992 do not authorize new loan activity in this account.
Financing.-Loan capital for this program has been provided both through appropriations and the sale of participation certificates which were backed by pools of existing higher education facilities loans held by the Federal Government. All participation certificates held by this account were redeemed as of September 30, 1988.

Interest is payable to Treasury on the amount of appropriations paid out for loan capital and remaining outstanding, less the average undisbursed cash balance in the fund during the year. The interest rate certified by Treasury for payment from the account is 6.75 percent in 1996.

Repayments on outstanding loans, interest revenue, and investment income are used to pay operating expenses and to repay interest costs to Treasury. For 1997, operating income is expected to be sufficient to finance all expenses. No appropriation is needed.
At the end of 1995, total delinquencies for this account were $$ 543$ thousand.

College Housing Loans

For necessary expenses of the college housing loans program, pursuant to title VII, part C of the Higher Education Acts, as amended, the Secretary shall make expenditures and enter into contracts without regard to fiscal year limitation using loan repayments and other resources available to this account. Any unobligated balances becoming available from fixed fees paid into this account pursuant to 12 U.S.C. 1749d, relating to payment of costs for inspections and site visits, shall be available for the operating expenses of this account.
Note.-A regular 1996 appropriation for this account had not been enacted at the time this budget was prepared. The 1996 amounts included in this budget are based on the levels provided in three continuing resolutions: P.L. 104-91, P.L. 104-92, and P.L. 104level

Program operations.-Loans in this account were made for construction and renovation of college housing facilities prior to 1987 under title IV of the Housing Act of 1950. The Higher Education Amendments of 1992 gave the Secretary authority to manage outstanding college housing loans under title VII, Part C of the Higher Education Act as amended. New loans made after 1986 were financed in the College Housing and Academic Facilities Loans Account. No new loan activity is authorized in this account.

Financing.-Loan capital for this program was provided primarily through Treasury borrowings and the sale of participation certificates which were backed by pools of college housing loans held by the Federal Government. The participation certificates sold by the Government National Mortgage Association (GNMA) and held by this account were redeemed as of September 30, 1988. As of September 30, 1995, $$ 484$ million in loan capital is still due the Treasury at an annual interest rate of 2.75 percent.

Available resources (loan repayments, interest revenue, and other income in excess of operating expenses) will be used to redeem a portion of the agency's debt in outstanding Treasury borrowings, as is being done in 1996 and as was done in preceding years. Approximately $$ 51$ million will be repaid to Treasury in 1995 and $$ 42$ million will be repaid in 1996; $$ 35$ million was repaid in 1994.

At the end of 1995, total delinquencies for this account were $$ 2.9$ billion.
