Intro shot

Music up: Interior house shot on the front door. Front door opens and the family is behind it. Ella runs in.

Maria	Welcome. Please come in! This is our home sweet home.	Maria and Ping in doorway
Ella	Ping! Ping! Please come here.	Close up ping listening
Ella	This is your bedroom. Your room is pink.	Medium shot of Ping and Ella
Ping	What's that in English?	Ping points to the desk.
Ella	That is a desk. It is white. This is a computer. Those are beds. There are two beds in your room. This is a green chair, and that is a white dresser. This is a window.	Shot of the room. Ella points out the contents of the room.
Ella	That is the bathroom.	Ping and Ella in hallway looking into bathroom
Ping	What's that in English?	Ping points to the shower.
Ella	That is the shower. The bathroom has a bathtub, a toilet, and a sink, too.	Ella points out the various fixtures
Stan	Ella! Please show Ping the kitchen.	Close up Ella listening
Ella	Here is the kitchen.	Ella and Ping looking into kitchen where Stan and Maria are at the table

Stan	Please have a seat, Ping. Here is your tea.	Tighter shot of all them at the table Ping and Ella still standing; Stan gestures to chair as speaking
Ping	(tentatively) Have a seat? I don't understand.	Ping moves toward chair
Ella	"Have a seat" means "Please sit in the chair."	Ping sits down. Ella sits beside Ping.
Maria	We want you to be happy here, Ping. We are going to make a family schedule.	Close up Maria
Ella	What is your schedule? What time do you get up?	Close up Ella
Ping	Get up?	Starts to rise from her chair
Ella	No, Ping. "What time do you get up" means "What time do you get out of bed in the morning."	Ella makes a sleeping gesture with her hands and then pantomimes sitting up and yawning
Ping	Oh. I get up at 6:30 in the morning.	Close up Ping
Stan	What time do you get up on Saturday?	Shot of all of them

Do you	2 nd person simple present question "Do you + verb (+ noun)": is a question about whether a person performs an action. With the questions "Do you eat breakfast on Saturday?" the questioner asks if the person spoken to carries out the activity of eating breakfast. The answer could be affirmative – "Yes" – or negative – "No."
I always	Simple present tense verb + frequency adverb: "I always" is a phrase that describes the frequency of occurrence of an action. "Always" is an adverb which generally describes an action which happens at all times or consistent times or in any event. This phrase would be followed by a verb, the action described. For example, I always get up at 7:00. Other frequency adverbs are "sometimes", and "usually".
What time do you/When do you	Wh question + 2 nd person: What time do you/When do you: These are questions about a period or point that an action occurs. "What time" asks for a point or period that something happens. "Six o'clock," "Noon," "Later," could all be answers to questions that start with "what time" or "When." "What time do you...." "When do you...." Would be followed by a verb since they question the occurrence of an action or activity.
What's	Contraction of to be with what , same as "what is".
What's that in English?	Common form used to request information.

It means/That means/____ means	This is a common phrase used to explain new ideas.

American Homes	What’s an American home like? There are quite a few different types of housing for American families that come in all sizes and prices. They range from apartments, duplexes, condominiums, and town houses to single family houses of many different sizes. The basic elements are usually the same: kitchen, living room, bathrooms, and bedrooms. There are countless other kinds of spaces: basement, attic, family room, recreation room, formal dining room, office, etc. Some Americans have the “do it yourself” attitude when it comes to home improvement. They spend a noticeable amount of time and energy on projects such as painting, wallpapering, or landscaping to improve their homes. Often the whole family is involved and children learn to help when they are quite young. Tools and materials are widely available from national local retail stores. There are also a large variety of instructional books, videos and workshops available to help people learn the skills. A growing number of television stations are devoted exclusively to home and garden topics.	Images of many different styles of homes at different economic levels – interior, exterior and some close up room shots.
American Breakfast	Breakfast is the favorite meal for many Americans. Some restaurants even serve a breakfast menu throughout the day. Breakfast lovers can pick from a huge variety of selections. Dairy products, such as milk, yogurt, or cheese, are some of the main ingredients for breakfast dishes. Milk, coffee and juice are most common beverages to drink. Eggs, bacon, sausage, and ham are often served, along with breads such as biscuits, toasts, pancakes, waffles and muffins. There are a number of sweet toppings available for the breads, such as syrup, jelly (jam) and honey. Busy families often eat easy-to-prepare foods, such as cold or “instant” hot cereals. (“Instant” hot cereals need only hot water added in order to prepare them for eating.) Fruit is popular for breakfast, too, particularly melons and berries. Watermelon, cantaloupe, honeydew melon, strawberries, and blueberries all can make breakfast very colorful. Breakfast can be very fancy but is usually most enjoyable when it is prepared at home on a weekend morning with friends or family. Businesses sometimes have “breakfast” meetings. Some daycares and schools have a simple breakfast available for children. You may see hotels advertise that Continental Breakfast is included in a daily stay. That usually means coffee, juice, pastries, and sometimes fruit. When meat and eggs are added, it is called an “American Breakfast”. The word “brunch” was invented to describe the combination of breakfast and lunch. Brunch is a nice and leisurely meal, usually eaten late in the morning, with the menu extended from typical breakfast items to other things that you might eat for lunch. However, sitting down and having a “real” breakfast is a luxury for most working families during the week. Most people have a simple and quick breakfast that requires little or no preparation. In

	addition to cold and “instant” hot cereals, individuals might eat doughnuts, bagels, or a store-bought “breakfast pastry” that is warmed up in the toaster. Some people go by the fast food restaurants or gas stations to get their morning coffee and breakfasts. It is very common to see someone drinking coffee and eating a biscuit or muffin while driving in a car on the way to school or work.
