

Dear People,

My position is that made in America means just that. If it is not 98% American-made then it should state what percentage is or is not made in America. As a consumer, I go out of my way to buy U.S. made goods. I will not knowingly send money to the Communist government of China - give me the ability to decide where my dollars will go. It's very simple.

Sincerely,
Alfred J. Hernandez
