

Building at 1612 3rd Avenue

1612 3rd Avenue

Columbus

This house was the home of George and Cordelia Henry, a black couple who worked as a carpenter and a midwife, respectively. This house probably dates to the 1860s and represents the type of housing built by middle-class African Americans. Members of the Henry family lived here as late as 1912. This structure is also representative of building styles in Columbus during the Civil War era. [Columbus MRA, CA 12/2/80, 80001128]
