

BUTTOLPH-WILLIAMS HOUSE

249 Broad Street

Wethersfield

Built in 1692, this is the oldest remaining house in Wethersfield, one of the oldest settlements in Connecticut. Now a museum, the restored 17th-century New England frame house with a two-room plan illustrates the range of architectural features and details that characterized the essentially medieval manner of building at the time.