Dear FCC:

The proposed merger between XM and Sirius would be a wonderful thing for music lovers and the satellite radio industry alike. Both companies are currently competing in a market that has a very fast growing demand. As a business owner I understand that competition is a great thing; however, currently competition in this case is limiting the choice of music programming to the end consumers. It is also limiting the financial success of both of these wonderful companies. I support the merger and I encourage you to do the same. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Taylor Toce
